Volunteer 'Hot Pilots' Wanted to Test Comets

British Desperate To Find Weakness

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today decided to call for volunteer "hot pilots" to test Comet jetliners to try to discover weaknesses, Sir Miles Thomas, British Overseas Corporation chairman, said today.

In the last 10 months three unexplained Comet crashes have killed all aboard the planes—99 persons. The latest disaster was Thursday off the Italian island of Stromboli, in which 21 persons died.

Thomas said the test planes may be equipped with special escape hatches and crew ejector seats, and flying instruments will be adapted so they can be jettisoned in case of unanticipated disaster.

The pilots will climb rapidly to high altitudes to try to duplicate the conditions existing just before the three Comets mysteriously plunged in fatal crashes.

The tests probably will be undertaken by test pilots of the royal aircraft establishment, Thomas said, adding:

"We want the Comets back in the air as soon as possible, but they must be right. The question of sabotage clearly cannot be ruled out entirely, but no engineer would shelter behind that."

A BOAC official had earlier denied reports that the corporation had sent any security men to Rome to investigate possible sabotage.

A de Havilland spokesman said today for the manufacturers that no Comet orders have been cancelled. Orders for the newer and more powerful Comet series include one from the first United States buyer, Pan-American World Airways, which has booked three Comet IIIs with the option of a further seven.

The spokesman added that the company is still working hard on the Comet II and Comet III and it is not correct to say that they are different planes from the Comet I, the type that crashed. They were longer in the fuselage, but in structure and design they were the same.

The de Havilland company said of Thursday's crash: "We are mystified.

"We feel that if it is not a matter of strength and not a matter of ordinary safety provisions we have to dig very deep to find the cause.

"When you have been building aircraft for 30 years and have provided against every possible cause of trouble it is rather difficult to know what to do."

Bodies Give No Evidence of Blast

NAPLES (CP) — A British medical officer said today superficial examination of victims' bodies gave no evidence that the jet airliner G-Alyy exploded in mid-air.

Cmdr. R. Russell, medical officer of the Royal Navy aircraft carrier Eagle, said he had examined bodies of five victims, only ones recovered of the 21 persons killed in the crash.

"Most of the injuries appeared to have resulted from a terrific impact," he said. "All five suffered fractures and severe bruises to their legs.

"I found no signs of an explosion in mid-air. They died hitting something — either the inside of the aircraft or the water."

Earlier reports had indicated that the Comet had exploded in the air, like another ill-fated Comet which plunged into the Mediterranean off Elba last Jan. 10 with loss of 35 lives.

Admiral Earl Mountbatten, British Mediterranean fleet and Allied Mediterranean commander, called off the British search this afternoon. He said he was certain that the five recovered bodies and the fragments of wreckage were all searchers could find.

The rest, he said, probably was sunk in the deep sea, beyond reach of divers.

Papers Lament Leadership Blow

In London, newspapers lamented the serious blow to British leadership in the jetliner field but said in effect: "We will press on."

The Financial Times said "there is no doubt what is at stake: It is whether Britain shall replace America as the main manufacturer of commercial airliners."

The Times described the disaster "as the tragedy of an enterprise," and added: "There should be no delay in letting the public know what is discovered."

The News Chronicle said "it is impossible to believe that the Comet will never fly again."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express urged that the Comet's model I be modified for use as a freight plane. "In Canada, Comets have been taken over by the air force," the editorial said. "Why not let the RAF take over in Britain too and fly them?"

"Why," asked The Daily Sketch, "has this wonder aircraft become a flying coffin?" But Britain will "press on regardless," it added.

The Daily Mail said "the Comets had an extraordinarily high safety record in their first year, so why should they start cracking up now?" It added: "The British people are confident that their engineers, designers and inventors can still beat all comers."

Hard-Fighting French Inflict Heavy Red Loss

Rebel Trenches Counter-Attacked

HANOI, Indo-China (CP) The French high command announced tonight that troops rallying from the heart of Dien Bien Phu inflicted "heavy losses" on the Communist-led Viet Minh in smashing a network of rebel trenches on the eastern side of the dustbowl.

French infantry, spearheaded by tanks and after three hours of artillery bombardment, counter-attacked the Vietminh and at the point of bayonets drove them from a hill position in the east.

The Vietminh then were driven out of a series of winding trenches in bloody hand-to-hand fighting.

The French high command announced that the losses of the attacking French troops were "appreciable."

BLAST AIR STRIP

The French high command announced earlier that Vietminh commandos had blown up the metal surfacing of the northern end of the Dien Bien Phu airstrip.

The French counter-attack smashed the closest Vietminh entrenchments to the heart of the fortress. These were estimated at five-eighths of a mile away.

French fighters and bombers followed up the infantry assaults, heavily plastering the Vietminh troops and forcing them to retreat pastward.

A command spokesman did not define the terms "heavy losses" but it was regarded likely that the Vietminh's casualties had run into hundreds of killed and wounded.

IN SECRET MEETINGS

Canada, Big Four May Talk Arms Cut

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With recent United States hydrogen bomb tests injecting a "new note of urgency," the West is solidly behind a proposal for private talks among the Big Four and Canada on world disarmament. Russia has asked for time to study the plan.

The proposal to take such arms discussions out of the public eye, where they have proved only a deadlock of propaganda exchanges, was made Friday by Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon before the United Nations disarmament commission.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky did not say "nyet" to the proposal. In fact, most delegates expect that the Russians finally will agree to the secret talks. But some observers wonder whether Vishinsky might not be preparing to insist on Red China's participation.

Vishinsky said he would have to reserve until later his comment on the British proposal, which got prompt backing by the U.S., France and Canada. He said he wants to see the plan in writing and go over it carefully.

One member of the commission said he understands Vishinsky sought the delay because he had not received instructions from Moscow in time for Friday's session.

Dixon promised to submit his proposal in writing Monday, and the commission recessed until next Wednesday. Canada's delegate, D. M. Johnson, welcomed the proposal.

In an obvious reference to the latest U.S. H-bomb tests and the chain-reaction political furor they have set off around the world, Sir Pierson said in introducing the plan that "there is a new note of urgency in the world today. We must redouble our efforts."

The plan calls for creation of a five-power subcommittee consisting of the U.S., Britain, France, Russia and Canada to try to find a solution to the disarmament and atomic control problem which public debate has failed to solve in the last eight years.

Saanich Search Ends as Body Found in Well

The body of a 61-year-old Saanich man, object of a police search since Friday morning, was found in a well near his home at the remote western end of Ivor Road just before noon today.

Henry Dickinson, 61, 347 Ivor, was discovered by a search party which expanded early today to include police, Vancouver Island Rangers and two tracking dogs. Police were called after Dickinson failed to return home after leaving the house at 10 a.m. Friday.

The searchers had gathered at Marigold Post Office at 9.45 a.m., under direction of Saanich Police Sgt. John Hamilton and Gordon Sword of the Rangers. The men spread out into the bush area which extends from the house where Dickinson lived with his wife, toward Prospect Lake.

The body had not yet been brought out of that area at press time and details were scarce.

Dickinson and his wife had come here to retire three or four years ago. He is reported to have been a policeman on the prairies. He was working at present as a night watchman at the Empress Hotel.

Victorians Promised Sunshine For Palm Sunday Services

The promise of sunny weather and the emergence of spring flowers will bring thousands of Victorians out to church tomorrow as Palm Sunday services mark the beginning of the most solemn period in the Christian calendar—Holy Week.

Special observances and sacred music have been planned at all city churches for the day that commemorates the entry of Christ into Jerusalem, the first step of the tragic story of the cross.

The religious significance of Holy Week will be marked each day, through Maunday Thursday and Good Friday, to the jubilant Christian festival of Easter Sunday.

At Christ Church Cathedral Very Rev. Northcote Burke, dean of Christ Church, Vancouver, will conduct the noonday services Monday through Thursday, from 12.15 to 12.40. On Friday special devotions will be held from noon to 3 p.m.

COLORFUL CROWD GREETS QUEEN, DUKE AT CEYLON

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UP) — Saffron-robed priests and skirted drummers greeted Queen Elizabeth today when she stepped ashore on her newest and most colorful Dominion.

Although Communist elements had threatened demonstrations, the Queen and Prince Philip met only happy smiles and thunderous applause as they drove slowly through close-packed crowds of Ceylonese to the town hall for the official welcome.

Scattered through the huge crowd along the eight-mile drive, were Buddhist priests in their yellow robes and Ceylonese women in brilliant saris patterned on jungle flowers from this Island garden of the East.

Chicago Narcotics Czar Shot to Death

CHICAGO (UP)—The alleged kingpin of a $10,000,000-a-year narcotics racket was seriously wounded and his brother was shot to death moments before their car smashed into the side of a building today.

The driver of the car, James Pape, 36, was killed by bullets in the back of his head and neck. His brother, Anthony (Andy) Pape, 40, slumped beside him, riddled by eight bullets.

Police theorized the shootings resulted from an attempt to take over the lush heroin racket.

B.C. Flood Threat Grows As Cold Delays Run-Off

Heavy snows blanketing the mountains above the Columbia and Kootenay River basins is posing the gravest flood threat on record in the province, officials of the provincial water rights branch reported today.

Millions of acre-feet of snow on the mountain ridges mean devastating floods if a quick thaw occurs.

Largest run-offs on record are expected on the Columbia and Kootenays, and the high flood potential that now exists could be seriously increased by cold weather during April.

The Fraser River basin is in no danger. Snow levels are near average.

Anxious watchers in the interior are hoping for a slow gradual thaw. There is no sign of a break in the cold. Last night, temperatures in parts of the affected region dropped to 18 below and lower.

ABOVE AVERAGE

Gravest danger exists in the East and West Kootenay area, where the snow pack is 150-163 per cent of the long-term average. On the main Columbia basin, snow pack is 147 per cent of the average.

Nearer the coast, the Skagit River basin records 148 per cent while a similar danger exists along the Similkameen, and upper and central Fraser.

Water rights branch officials said a survey scheduled for May 1st will indicate more clearly the seriousness of the flood potential in the Columbia and Kootenay basins.

Three Separate Inquiries Into Moose Jaw Air Crash

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — The transport department's official on-the-spot inquiry into the mid-air collision here of a Trans-Canada Air Lines passenger plane and an RCAF Harvard aircraft probably will be completed by Thursday.

This has been forecast by C. T. Travers of Ottawa, superintendent of air regulations for the federal department, who arrived Friday to open the inquiry.

Mr. Travers said it is quite likely the finds of his inquiry board will be announced by Transport Minister Chevrier.

The RCAF and TCA are well into their own investigations of the crash, which killed 37 persons in Canada's worst air line disaster.

Ottawa Hears Harvard Pilot Not Skylarking

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA (Special)—Charges that Royal Canadian Air Force training planes have "buzzed" civilian aircraft are expected to be considered by the cabinet next week with the possibility that a special inquiry may be ordered.

The charges were made at Edmonton by Capt. A. R. Eddie of Winnipeg, managing director of the Canadian Airline Pilots Association following the crash of the North Star airliner which resulted in the death of 37 persons.

Meantime, information received here from Moose Jaw indicated that the Harvard trainer which collided with the Trans-Canada Airlines North Star was on a routine navigation flight and was on course. It was emphasized here that preliminary inquiries indicated that the Moose Jaw crash was not a case of the Harvard trainer "skylarking" with the civilian craft.

Fatal Derailment 'Deliberate' CNR Man Says, Three Questioned

QUEBEC (CP)—A provincial police spokesman said today three men have been questioned in connection with Tuesday's train wreck at Montmagny, Que., which killed four men. A Canadian National Railways official has said the wreck was caused deliberately by a person or persons unknown.

Police said one of the men questioned was cleared. Questioning of a second man was continuing here. The spokesman said he understood that railway police were questioning a third man in Montreal.

The police spokesman said: "We have nothing solid to go on. We are trying to find someone who could have done this."

The investigation, he said, is being hindered by persons with too vivid imaginations.

They denied a report that an unidentified body found in the wreckage was that of a murdered man whose killer opened the switch in the hope that crime would not be discovered amid the debris of the crash.

"So many things are being reported that it's all mixed up," a police spokesman said. "We are having trouble sorting out the proof. There are a lot of people with imagination."

Police moved in Friday after S. F. Digle, vice-president of operation for Canadian National Railways, said in Montreal railway investigations showed the CNR was not to blame and that the "switch was opened deliberately by a person or persons unknown."

The three crew members of the Ocean Limited were killed when the Montreal-bound express raced through an open switch and plowed into standing freight cars. A fourth unidentified body was found Thursday in the ruins of a freight shed shattered by the train.

STOTT in the HOUSE

Pruning Season On Labor Debate

IT'S NOT too late to prune roses—or debate on labor legislation. Premier Bennett proved the latter when he used blunt shears to trim down trade union talk on the second reading of Bill 28, the Labor Relations Act, early yesterday evening.

The CCF union members had taken over discussion when the regular dinner adjournment hour arrived at 6. Mr. Tony Gargrave, IWA, asked permission to adjourn debate. Premier Bennett agreed.

Under normal circumstances that would have allowed Mr. Gargrave to resume Monday afternoon. Mr. Bennett had other ideas. Adjournment was granted and the next sitting set for five minutes later. The Press Gallery, which had planned its sessional party for 8.30 last night, began a small discussion of its own. The language was not editorial.

Still, the boys filed back into the gallery and speeches became models of brevity. In about half an hour the second reading of Bill 28 was completed and forced through 21 to 15 on the division. There still remains consideration of the bill, clause by clause. But when Mr. Bennett decides to crack the whip, he can expedite proceedings substantially.

The late discussion was reserved almost entirely for comment either by strong union members or MLA's who are officers in unions. Their opinion was unanimous. To them the labor bill is an invitation to strife, will invite lawlessness when organized labor breaks red-tape, and will seriously injure if not destroy unionism.

No Comfort to Government

They said that in various forms and with various types of delivery in a way to provide no comfort for the government. Several followed the pattern of earlier speakers with short lectures on labor history and human relationships, though the adjectives became a little less elegant than they had been the night before.

S. J. Squire, Alberni, held the floor at the opening of the debate; Robert Strachan followed. Frank Howard picked up the theme from there and Mr. Gargrave was speaking up to adjournment.

Each flayed the bill in priciple, singling out particular sections on occasion and urging withdrawal of the measure.

Mr. Gargrave cut short his remarks after the brief recess. Vincent Segur, Revelstoke, saying uncomplimentary things about the public who elected such a government, added a few remarks about his experience in railway unions. He appeared to appreciate the fact that Premier Bennett was highballing, and he closed shortly.

Mr. William Moore was briefest of all. He had hoped to follow a government speaker—had hoped that Socred backbenchers would venture an opinion on the bill. Since none did, Mr. Moore was unwilling to prolong the debate.

Second reading went to the vote. Government members stood up en masse to carry the bill and a call echoed across the floor from the opposition: "Wait till you get home, you guys."

While that subject claimed most time, the House was busy putting a stream of legislation through preliminary and advanced readings.

Mr. Lyle Wicks explained the new arrangements for transitional rent control regulations—a sort of mop-up operation which will facilitate transfer of that responsibility to municipalities, if they want it, though it's hard to see why they should.

In the Interests of Science

And discussion followed on a macabre bill that will help medical schools acquire the cadavers they need for anatomical studies. Most members appreciated the seriousness of the measure and the requirements of science. But its sponsor, Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin, couldn't help looking speculatively across the House and thinking aloud how useful the opposition might be to the cause of surgery.

The sitting opened with Provincial Secretary Wesley Black once again proving how difficult it is to interest people in civil defense. He reported on the conference in Ottawa from which his representative has just returned.

Mr. Black is very earnest in his consideration of civil defense. His hearers undoubtedly appreciate the menace of the H-bomb. They no doubt felt a little guilty when they found it so hard to concentrate on the subject. But how can you make it interesting without scaring people to death . . .

Ghost Trucks Disclosed in Road Scandal

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (BUP)—The Crown was reported today to be preparing a fresh series of prosecutions in connection with an investigation of the Fort William division of the Ontario highways department.

Two days' preliminary hearings of charges against five former division employees ended Friday and it was expected further charges would be laid soon. No details as to whether the new charges would be laid against highways department employees or contractors were immediately available.

Two non-existent trucks allegedly on the Ontario department payroll were considered sufficient evidence Friday to commit four department employees to trial before District Judge A. H. Dowler on June 7.

Crown Prosecutor D. L. Dubin and Assistant Crown Attorney David Humphrey of Toronto produced cheques totalling $7,820 which had been paid for services rendered by ghost trucks and phantom drivers.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-engined Super Constellation, owned by the Australian Quantas Airways, touched down here Friday night on the first leg of a familiarization flight from Burbank, California.

The flight, piloted by Capt. Kenneth Jackson, is a forerunner of a proposed Vancouver-Australia air passenger service.

The huge airliner will return to Burbank Saturday, then proceed to Sydney, Australia, Sunday on the second leg of its trial run.

Robert Mattkemper, Quantas district manager here, said his company will inaugurate a twice-weekly service from Vancouver to Sydney in mid-May.

He was elected by a landslide vote at the close of the two-day convention Friday. Oliver, who was party leader from 1947 to 1949, was elected on the first ballot, receiving 412 votes against 162 for Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor member of the legislature for Kenora, and 46 for William Temple, Belleville lawyer and alderman.

U.S. Could Destroy Russia Says Morse

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Wayne Morse (Ind., Oregon) said Friday night he was confident that if war came the United States could "destroy the war-making potential of Russia" and reduce her to "military impotence" in nine months.

He made the statement in a floor speech in commenting on the possibility of a third world war developing out of the powder-keg in Southeast Asia.

But he said the U.S. should do everything possible to avoid such a "holocaust."

7 Years in Pen For Peddling Dope to Girls

Frank Cross, 26, Also Fined $600

A city man today began serving seven years in penitentiary for peddling dope.

Sentenced in Assize Court Friday was Frank Cross, 26, no fixed address, convicted of possessing, offering and selling dope to two teen-agers.

Cross drew seven years for selling drugs, seven years for offering to sell a drug, and three years for possession—a total of 17 years. Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker said, however, that the terms were to run concurrently.

His Lordship also fined Cross a total of $600 with the alternative of serving an additional three months' imprisonment.

Cross has a criminal record dating back to 1947.

Crown counsel George Gregory pointed out that one previous convictions was for jail-breaking while serving a term of imprisonment in 1948. He was sentenced to four extra months for escaping.

HEROIN ADDICT

Cross, through his lawyer, James Proudfoot, made an attempt to get a minimum sentence by pleading to His Lordship that he was an addict. Addicts usually get lighter sentences than non-addicts on narcotic charges.

Mr. Proudfoot told His Lordship that Cross had informed him that he took a capsule of heroin a day and requested a lighter sentence in view of his addiction to dope.

Mr. Justice Whittaker refused to consider the plea. "The evidence is that you were selling drugs for gain," he said. "Whether you are addicted or not, this is a most serious crime."

LAURIER MONUMENT

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—Premier Maurice Duplessis said today his government had subscribed $20,000 toward erection of a monument here in memory of former Prime Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Black Calls for Top-Level Review Of CD Plans for H-Bombed Cities

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black has warned B.C. residents not to panic or be hypnotized by the threat of an H-bomb attack, and asked for a top-level study of mass evacuation.

Mr. Black Friday told the Legislature that "no one can minimize the terrifying effects of this unbelievable and fantastic weapon, but we must resist a tendency to panic."

His report on the H-bomb, and its only defense . . . mass evacuation from large cities . . . followed the March 29th civil defense advisory committee meeting in Ottawa.

As the result of information given during the federal-provincial conference Mr. Black said the province will ask for a high level study on large-scale evacuation.

Mr. Black warned that evacuation of a city the size of Vancouver might not prove practical. He said it would involve planning on a scale comparable to the North Africa invasion by the allies during the last world war.

"This government will urge the federal government to call the high-level evacuation study with federal, provincial and municipal officials, and armed forces and industrial representatives."

The minister gave some indication that the entire field of civil defense had been drastically changed by the threat of an H-bomb attack.

More emphasis, he said, will be placed on mutual aid and mobile support. Rural districts must be prepared to handle large numbers of city evacuees.

Ottawa Refuses Financial Aid For Marpole Span

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will not help to pay for construction of a $10,000,000 high-level bridge across the Fraser River at Marpole on the outskirts of Vancouver, Works Minister Winters said Friday in the Commons.

He spoke after opposition members from Vancouver ridings had urged the government to share the cost of the bridge with the city and the province. They quoted statements attributed to Trade Minister Howe and former fisheries minister Mayhew which they said committed the government to provide financial assistance.

However, Mr. Winters said he has been unable to find in department files any indication of a valid federal commitment to contribute to the cost.

Permanent Pact for Fireboat Goal of Study Ordered by City

City Council has instructed its finance committee to investigate a suggestion that the city enter into a permanent agreement with Island Tug & Barge Limited for fireboat service.

Two proposals have been suggested. One, that the city pay a regular "retainer" to the company to provide service when needed; the other, that the city pay so much "per fire."

Ald. Arthur Dowell raised the subject at a City Countl meeting Thursday. He called attention to the fact that twice within three months Harold Elworthy, head of Island Tug, had dispatched his fireboat to assist city firemen in overcoming two serious waterfront blazes. He referred to the January fire at VMD's Outer Wharf yard and last Saturday's fire at McCarter shingle mill.

Ald. Dowell said the boat, on both occasions, had accomplished "a fine piece of work."

Ald. Robert Macmillan supported Ald. Dowell's suggestion of a permanent agreement with the firm. He said Mr. Elworthy had acted "above and beyond the call of civic duty," and said some financial consideration should be provided for such service.

GENERAL'S NOSE WORTH $200; SCHINE'S $100

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—A retired major-general who offered $100 to any non-com who would punch Pte. G. David Schine in the nose had a $200 price on his own nose today.

Maj.-Gen. Arthur Wilson (Ret.), mailed a $100 cheque to the commanding officer of Fort Dix and directed it be given to any non-commissioned officer who would punch the nose of Schine, the former aide to Sen. Joseph P. McCarthy whose induction into the army stirred up the row between McCarthy, his investigator Roy Cohn and the Pentagon.

The counter off was made by William Pongratz, who was gassed in the First World War and served as a master sergeant in Intelligence in the Second World War.

Pongratz described Wilson's offer as "un-American and I don't like it."

'UNITED FRONT' DULLES MISSION ON EUROPE TRIP

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today he is flying to Europe on "a mission of peace through strength" to save southeast Asia from Communism through a "united front" of free peoples.

Dulles conferred with President Eisenhower before leaving tonight for conferences in London and Paris. After receiving Mr. Eisenhower's last-minute instructions and endorsement of his mission, the secretary said: "This government believes that if all the free people who are threatened unite against the threat, then the threat can be ended."

Stevens Calls For Three-Man Liquor Board

No Faith in Present One-Man Commission

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman of the 1952 liquor survey in B.C., Friday called for the removal of provincial liquor control board chairman Col. Don McGugan and his replacement by a three-man commission.

"I am disappointed that the government has seen fit to continue the old administration," Mr. Stevens said in an interview. "I have no faith in the present administration either as a one-man commission or as an individual."

Mr. Stevens said a three-man commission is the "logical" way to handle liquor administration.

Provinces Urged To Speed Roads

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Winters says the Trans-Canada Highway will be completed on schedule if the provinces live up to the terms of the federal-provincial highway agreement.

He told the Commons Friday, however, that the 5,000-mile highway will not be completed by December 9, 1956, the date the agreement expires, unless the provinces accelerate construction.

"We have been doing everything we can to urge on the provincial governments the desirability of making haste within the terms of the agreement," he said.

The nine provinces which have signed the agreement, all except Quebec, had been reminded that the government's authority to participate in the project expired with the lapsing of the agreement.

"What more we can do to urge the provincial governments to meet the obligations which they themselves assumed under the terms of this agreement, I do not know," Mr. Winters said. He gave no indication that the agreement would be continued beyond December 9, 1956.

PROVINCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Responsibility for initiating construction rests with the provinces, Mr. Winters said there is no lack of desire on the part of the federal government to proceed with construction but that federal participation depends on the provinces.

Since the agreement was signed in 1949, 803 miles of highway have been paved and 1,220 miles graded. A total of 220 miles have been approved for grading and 156 miles for paving. Contractual commitments to April 3 totalled $143,934,656, with the federal share amounting to $71,517,328. Federal payments for work completed now total $46,056,923.

Mr. Winters said he recognizes that the trans-Canada highway forms only a small part of the highway construction program in Ontario. However, he said Ontario is the key link in the highway and there still are sections which have not been graded.

NEW YORK (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Trudel, 29-year-old Quebec City mother of three, Friday was named "Mrs. Canada" by the Mrs. America contest committee.

NEW YORK (UP)—George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor, warned today against "recognition of Communist China or its admission to the United Nations."

Eight Companies Seek to Restore Iranian Oil Flow

LONDON (Reuters) — A group of eight major world oil companies agreed today on setting up an international combine to restore the flow of Iranian oil to world markets.

They will send a high-level United States-led mission to Tehran tonight to negotiate a settlement of the three-year-old Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

This dispute, precipitated by the nationalization of the Iranian oil interests in Iran, brought a rupture of diplomatic relations with Britain and the virtual drying up of Iranian oil, the country's biggest asset.

The Foreign Office had already informed the Iranian government of the agreement. Gen. Fazlollah Zahedi's administration replied today, "warmly inviting" the joint team to Tehran.

JUST A JOKE

Hard Labor For Man Who Killed in Fun

NIMES, France (Reuters)—Robert Brunel, a 24-year-old hunchback who "poisoned for fun," was sentenced to hard labor for life today on charges of killing his father and two grandmothers with arsenic.

In court earlier today Brunel roared with laughter when the public prosecutor described him as a "mental deficient," and said he would not demand the death penalty.

Brunel confessed in court Friday to poisoning his father and paternal grandmother. But he denied charges of killing his other grandmother and paralyzing his brother Raymond, 30, with arsenic.

The hunchback was alleged to have administered poison to his four victims by mixing agricultural arsenic with their morning coffee. He told the court president he had killed his father "for a joke."

Nine-Day-Old Baby Saved By Firemen

A nine-day-old baby in convulsions was attended by a resuscitator crew and a home was saved from burning when Saanich firemen rushed to two emergency calls in an 11-minute period Friday night.

"The baby responded to treatment and the blaze was quickly extinguished," Fire Lieutenant Tom Moss reported.

The child was Janet Forbes, 2805 Rockwell. A doctor was in attendance when the firemen arrived at 10.29 p.m. The men had just completed a speedy job on a small porch fire at the home of Peter Holmes, 1695 Cedar Hill Cross Roads, which had been reported at 10.18, 11 minutes earlier.

Key Republican Senators Oppose New Trade Policy

WASHINGTON (UP) — Key Republican senators lined up today in opposition to the free world's new policy of increased non-strategic trade with the Soviet bloc nations of Europe.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), a member of the foreign relations committee and chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, said now is the "wrong time" to change the West's trade policy. He said the Soviets would interpret it as a sign of weakness.

Ferguson spoke out after foreign aid chief Harold E. Stassen told the foreign relations committee Friday that the new policy is designed to woo the people behind the iron curtain to peace.

But Ferguson said easing of trade curbs—even on non-military consumer items—on the eve of the big power talks in Geneva would lead the Russians to "misjudge what we are trying to do." He said they will think "we have a fear complex."

Mr. Johnson Challenges Tax

AT THE TIME OF THE LAST provincial by-election here, Mr. Byron Johnson, former premier, took issue with Government spokesmen on the question of debt reduction. From his personal knowledge and from official records he showed that Social Credit claims to have reduced the provincial debt by some $30,000,000 were not founded in fact—that actually most of the reduction was based on sums left over by the previous administration.

A few days ago Mr. Johnson again entered public debate with a series of articles in The Times which made plain many facts about hospital insurance financing. His facts and figures shed a new light on several phases of the present Government's plan which abolishes premiums in favor of a sales tax levy.

One of the most important points raised by the former premier is that by abandoning the insurance feature of the scheme the Government has lost control of the ultimate cost. The former plan had "a reasonable control factor as compared with the wide-open entry into the treasury under a welfare plan." Hospital payments are due to go up sharply, but any falling off in sales tax revenues could cut into the services provided.

Not only will all existing welfare services be competing with the $24,000,000-a-year hospital requirements, but "all departments of government financed out of the consolidated revenue of the province will feel the effect of this terrific increase load on the tax structure." This, says the former premier, "will have a very serious effect on the credit of the province and on the credit of industries. . . ."

Another point Mr. Johnson stresses is that by the very nature of the new plan all hospital patients will become wards of the Government, and ultimately a means test will have to be imposed, the same as for all other welfare schemes.

It is charged also that the Government has indulged in some questionable figuring to present its plan in a better light. For instance, the million dollars or more which the Government claims will be saved through eliminating hospital insurance staff will be largely off-set by the three-quarters of a million which storekeepers will receive for collecting the extra two per cent sales tax, since they are allowed three per cent of all they collect.

Again, Mr. Johnson sees the Government as confusing the whole cost structure by lumping together regular grants for welfare cases, (which had to be paid whether under the insurance plan or the tax plan) with other subsidies to keep the scheme operative, and also adding in more than $2,000,000 of construction costs as a yearly expense. All these appear as charges to be paid out of the two per cent tax although formerly they were not charged against premiums.

"In order to get a true picture of the operation of the hospital insurance service," says Mr. Johnson, "(municipal grants, social assistance premiums and provincial grants) should be taken out because before the inception of hospital insurance they were paid as a part of the welfare program, and the per diem grants for a long period were paid to the hospitals. They have nothing to do with the hospital insurance service."

Again, Mr. Johnson provided figures to support his contention that the financial condition of the whole insurance scheme, taking into account the surpluses left over from Liberal administration, was sound enough to warrant continuation of the premium system. This was particularly the case since the earlier upsurge in hospital operation costs was levelling off.

Mr. Johnson therefore makes the point that it was Social Credit insistence, not economic necessity, that initiated the change in financing hospital care. He concludes, in fact, that "the people of British Columbia will pay $8,000,000 more in taxes this year than if the Hospital Insurance Service had carried on."

Mr. Johnson proved himself right before, when he took issue with Premier Bennett on the matter of British Columbia's debt. What answer will the government now produce, in the face of these telling arguments?

Traffic Remedy

MR. GEORGE GREGORY'S highway act amendment bill to legalize inside passing on certain laned streets under specific conditions has been rejected by the Legislature. It was defeated on a division showing the Government solidly against the proposal.

Thus the administration has refused to cure the ridiculous condition which prevails in Victoria—a condition under which police officers turn a blind eye to law violation on police commission instructions.

In declining to accept the bill, Attorney-General Bonner indicated the issue would be covered at some future date in legislation uniform throughout Canada. In the meantime he refused to accept Mr. Gregory's suggestion that the bill submitted to the House be put into force and then replaced when a better one comes along.

The matter is of particular interest in Victoria. It concerns all drivers in this community. Yet in the solid support enlisted by Socreds against the measure were included two Victorians, Mrs. Lydia Arsens and Mr. W. N. Chant, as well as Saanich representative J. D. Tidball Tisdalle and Esquimalt member Herbert J. Bruch.

Chocolate Lily

BY F. L. BEEBE and WILLIAM A. HUBBARD, Provincial Museum

A FLOWERING plant with a brown blossom—could anything be more curious?

Most flowers come in pure colors—yellow, red or blue; or combinations of colors—purple, orange or green. From such combinations plant breeders can usually develop a range of colors; from a flower that in its original wild state is orange, the domestic varieties may range from pale yellow through to deep red—but never blue. From a brown flower it should be theoretically possible to get all colors: red, yellow, orange, purple, green and blue.

The chocolate lily grows along the coast, commonly on Vancouver Island and on the Gulf Islands, sparingly on the mainland. Then there is a wide east-west gap and it appears again in the dry interior but in a different habitat.

On the coast it is a flower of open rocky slopes reaching its highest development on some of the Gulf Islands. In the interior it is more likely to be found in more shaded situations and in damp canyons.

LOCAL NAMES

Like most showy plants the chocolate lily has a multitude of local names. Here are some "Riceroot, Indian Rice, Speckled Hen, Snake Lily, Bronze Bells and Mission Bells (the last two are more properly applied to two other species of flowers).

The southern plant is Fritillaria lanceolata to the scientist. A more slender-growing northern variety with blossoms nearly or entirely unspotted and much darker in color, approaching a very dark maroon, is known as Fritillaria kamchatckensis. This last is altogether a much more attractive flower but not nearly so well known as the southern variety.

The names of Riceroot and Indian Rice indicate that the Chocolate Lily was known to the Indians as a food plant. Apparently, it was at one time a very important article of diet with the Coast Indians.

At the base of every plant lies a well-buried bell-shaped bulb covered with white tender rice-like scales. They look quite edible, even raw. The Indians cooked them, usually by boiling, and they are said to be very good eating.

On certain of the more barren Gulf Islands are nesting colonies of gulls and cormorants. Here, in deep humus, highly fertilized with fish and guano, are found very giants of chocolate lilies. They grow two feet high, as thick as grass and with four or five blossoms to a stem. Spectacular and unusual as they are, they can hardly be called normal; they are too rank and coarse to have the simple charm of the plants growing to normal dimensions under less favorable conditions.

Disturbing News From Calgary

THE newspapers, I am advised, have innocently distorted the news of Victoria's great daffodil drop on the city of Calgary. While the news columns were full of joyful tidings and pungent with the spring perfume of good neighborliness, a friend of mine in Calgary, an obscure mechanic named Homer Sprigg, telephoned me (collect) to recount the actual facts of the floral invasion. This is Mr. Sprigg's account verbatim as I took it down in shorthand:

Hutchison

"I'm in the back yard, see, on my day off, diggin' the garden with a pick, because it's still froze a foot deep, and I look up and seen a plane comin' in mighty low, and then a big burst of yellow stuff starts fallin' outa it, and I know right away something's wrong. I haven't been in two wars for nothin' and I know an enemy when I see him, see?

"But this ain't no ordinary enemy, you can bet, and no ordinary bombs either. First I think that yellow stuff is a new kind of mustard gas but when it starts to hit the ground in pieces I seen it was somethin' else and I know right away what has happened. So I run into the house and tell the wife—you remember the wife, Irene?—I tell her that it's happened sure enough. The men from Mars is here. This is the end.

"DON'T be silly, says Irene, it's only the Victoria Chamber of Comerce droppin' daffodils. Daffodils at this time of year, at a dollar a dozen, I says, do you think them Victoria fellas is crazy? Very likely, she says, it's the mild climate out there affects 'em. What do you know about the Chamber of Commerce, I says, and rememberin' an old joke, I says further to Irene, you're so dumb you think the Chamber of Commerce has a handle. And maybe it should have, she says, the way it's behavin' today.

"But when she seen that cloud of yellow comin' down and the bombs spatterin' all over the streets she changed her mind quick and said maybe we'd better jump in the car and visit her mother out in Lethbridge.

"NO, I says, we'll stay here and die with our own folks. Anyways, you can't escape these men from Mars, I says. And she looks up, still suspicious, and says why didn't they leave the daffodils in the plane and throw out the Chamber of Commerce? That would be a gesture of goodwill that we could all understand and appreciate, she says, but by now, you see, she's talkin' hysterical like a woman.

"So I pick up one of the yellow things with the tongs from the fireplace and bury it quick in the back yard where I'm diggin' and right away, bein' an old soldier, I seen that it was somethin' new all right, it lay there without a flicker, probably a time bomb to go off later, and it had no smell either, and I figgered it was givin' off one of them new-fangled gasses that don't smell, so I held my handkerchief over my nose and buried it and we went away from there quick.

"BY now, so help me, the plane has landed on the airstrip at the end of the block and I creep up there and watch the passengers get out and stand straight up on their feet like men. Why, you could almost take 'em for men, the way they was dressed up same as us, though a little too fancy to fool me.

"Oh, they was cleverly disguised I can tell you. I seen right away those Mars fellas is smart, far too smart for a Chamber of Commerce, even if subhuman, see? Then they begun to talk and it was a pretty good imitation of English, too. They must of studied hard out of a dictionary but their accent gave 'em away. I knew right off that was no Canadian accent.

"BUT Irene whispers in my ear that's the way everybody talks out in Victoria, it's the climate as affects 'em, but nacherally I don't pay any attention to her because she's hysterical. Why anybody could tell by the look of 'em they came from some other planet. They wasn't human. Why, they was carryin' strings of bananas and eatin' 'em like monkeys. I see what they was all right, very clever animals dressed up like men.

"Well, we couldn't stop 'em so we thought it was best to play along with 'em and see what happens, so the mayor and city council takes 'em along, with a straight face, to a banquet, if you please, and you won't believe it but one of 'em axually stands up and starts makin' a speech, almost in English, too, and well rehearsed in advance. Oh, they're clever.

"THIS fella says he's a publisher of a newspaper out in Victoria and he'd disguised himself enough to deceive anybody, with a big cigar, like all publishers and that kind of glittin' look publishers have and I tell you I could almost believe it was my old friend, Stu Keate if I didn't know he had too much sense to be bombardin' a defenseless town and, anyways, wouldn't know a daffodil from a geranium.

So this fella makes a mighty impressive speech about how the young men like him is takin' over Victoria and the world and what a fine thing that will be for everybody, though I must say he didn't look so young himself and maybe will get more sense after a few years.

"WELL, at first I thought I'd phone Mike Pearson or Eisenhower and let 'em know that it's all over and the hydrogen bomb out of date but I knew they wouldn't believe me. So we all sit tight and pretend to be polite and friendly, though the mayor and the rest of us was scared to death, knowin' the end had come, and after a while we usher 'em back to the plane and send 'em on to Edmonton and we gather up all the bombs before they can explode, but you'd better watch out in Victoria, for they'll be landin' there next probably pretendin' to be the Chamber of Commerce from Calgary. But I got to hang up now," said Mr. Sprigg, "and keep an eye on the back yard where the thing is buried. Irene sends her love as likely she and me won't be seein' you again in this world."

'TERRIER TYPE WITH BLACK AND TAN'

Too Much Education Becomes a Nuisance

BY HUBERT EVANS, Roberts Creek, B.C.

WHETHER this progressive education is good for children or bad for them I am not prepared to say. I side neither with Dr. Neatby nor with her opponents in the controversy. But I know from sad experience it is not the thing for dogs. Not for our dog Ike, it isn't. This may be because Ike, to put it mildly, is an unusual dog. His breed, let alone his IQ, defies classification.

EVANS

Recently in complying with the Sheep Protection Act (Chapt. 303, RSBC 1948) I went to get his tag and license. When the Mounty asked me his breed I would have been stumped had it not been for another Mounty who gave Ike his first tag years ago in Hazelton. That one had hazarded the guess that Ike was "of the terrier type," with perhaps a trace of bird dog.

The Hazelton Mounty was a dog fancier and although he did not indicate which breed of terrier he had in mind and was vague as to the bird dog strain, I accepted his conjecture and let it go at that. So on the 1954 license "terrier type" it is, with the added information "black and tan markings."

Ike is now nine years old but spry and young in mind. He was born in Kitamaat when that place was eighty miles from the nearest steamer stop and only an Indian village, period. Our son, then in his early teens, paid two dollars for him.

When he brought Ike home I told my son he had been had. It was foolish to pay two dollars for a nondescript pup, I said. Ike soon demonstrated that I was the foolish one.

I suppose that when I said he was not worth two dollars I should have spelled the words as parents of precocious youngsters have to do to conceal what they are saying. But how was I to know we had a canine Quiz Kid on our hands?

One night Ike went with his young master to the village store. When they came back the lad discovered he had lost a two dollar bill he had received in change. The night was black and it was snowing hard so there seemed no use searching the path. Just then Ike trotted into the kitchen with something in his mouth.

My son took the something and held it up. "You see, pop, Ike's paid for himself already!"

By the way Ike pranced around the kitchen you would have thought he knew he had retrieved his exact purchase price, in fact that he was able to read the two dollar denomination printed on the bill.

EDUCATIONAL ERROR

I now believe that the praise and encouragement we heaped on Ike that night was an educational error. Commendation and what progressive teachers call drawing out the young mind may be fine and dandy for youngsters but we made too much of Ike's cleverness and his retrieving aptitudes got all out of kilter.

We drew them out so far that we have since been unable to put them back into proper proportion again. As a result, in the matter of bringing you things, Ike became an exhibitionist, a showoff.

That night we established a behavior pattern we cannot break and the exasperating part of it is that from Ike's point of view it pays. A person coming to our house invariably gets something brought to him. It may be a chip or an old bone, my wife's rubber or my tobacco pouch, but it is thrust into the visitor's hand regardless.

Scolding and ridicule do no good. Why should they when Ike's show-off tendencies get him attention and a pat on the head? Over-stimulation isn't the word for it.

Of late this retrieving routine of his has developed into a bare-faced racket. Anything to get attention.

One evening when I was late in feeding him what did he do but carry his dish up the hill to a neighbor's house, thump his tail on the back door and lay down his plate and give our neighbor a look which as good as said, "Put something in the pot, boy."

Almost every day now if things are dull at home, he takes some trifle or other elsewhere and peddles it. Yesterday I saw him set out across the field, his white plume waving and stepping high in spite of his rheumatism, and carrying something in his mouth.

"This thing has got to stop," I told my wife. I knew he was making for another neighbor's house and I cut along the beach to head him off.

I failed. Ike had swapped his gift for a handout and vanished by the time I reached the neighbor lady's house.

"Guess what?" she greeted me. "Ike brought a mouthful of old maple leaves."

"And then you fed him. I wish you wouldn't."

"It was nothing to speak of." The little old lady's laugh is gentle. She can't resist him. "Isn't he cute?"

"And doesn't he know it!"

But what can I do? It's a clear case of over-stimulation. I must get hold of Dr. Neatby's book. But I fear that any remedial measures Dr. Neatby might suggest would come too late to straighten out our Kitamaat two dollar dog.

A WHIFF OF SMOKE FROM FAR AWAY

Geneva: The Fate of Two Hemispheres

WHATEVER the outcome of the fierce battle that now rages over the fortress of Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China, the smell of gun smoke will be strong in the conference chambers of Geneva when eastern and western nations meet later this month to attempt a settlement of Far Eastern problems.

There can be little doubt that the Communists, with the support of Chinese tacticians, equipment and supplies, are making a major effort to supply a local victory to bolster their case at the conference. The French, on the other hand, are determined to show that they cannot be ousted by Communist force—that any settlement of the war must be on a basis of negotiation, if a French victory is not possible.

It is the realization that negotiation may provide the only solution to the Indo-China struggle that led to the Geneva parley. But the content of the negotiation, of the possible Russian offers to France, is causing concern to the United States.

Wider Meaning

The reason is that Indo-China is more than a mere colonial struggle, more even than a Communist fight "dangerously close to aggression," to use Mr. Dulles' portentous words. It is part and parcel of the world conflict, the East-West cold war, and it may be used by the Soviet as a lever to influence French action in Europe.

Thus the Asiatic battle becomes a factor in the European equation—could, in fact, make or break the whole European Defense Community concept.

France is desperately feeling the cost of the Indo-Chinese fighting. For years her army, both men and officers, has been drained to supply the Far East fighting line, and her treasury has been dangerously depleted to finance the war. The French do not wish to lose Indo-China, but they do not wish, either, to ruin France in retaining it.

They are therefore open for a "deal", and Mr. Molotov, the Soviet foreign minister, indicated at the recent Berlin conference what line his approach will probably take.

The Russians fear EDC, the plan whereby western Europe would form a joint, international army for protection against Soviet or other aggression.

Cardinal Point

One of the cardinal points of the EDC plan, however, involves the rearmament of West Germany, so that the Bonn republic could provide half a million troops for the defense force. France, which has felt the weight of German invasion three times in three generations, fears to place guns once more in the hands of her historic enemy, and for that reason has stalled implementation of the EDC program by delaying ratification.

The opposition led to a riot last week, and to the dismissal of Marshal Juin from his top military commands.

The French government of Premier Laniel, however, supports the EDC plan and is working for its acceptance. From Russia's standpoint, therefore, there is a constant threat that EDC will be completed and West Germany securely tied into the western community. To avoid this, Moscow might be willing to offer attractive concessions in the Far East—even abandon, at least temporarily, the Communist pressure on south-east Asia.

The job of western diplomacy at Geneva will be to secure the best possible settlement in the Far East, while still preserving intact the structure of the European defensive circle.

In approaching this situation, the United States and its western allies carry with them the knowledge that for the past several years France has been fighting their battle against communism—that the Indo-China war is a war against communist aggression and hence a direct concern of all the democracies. If France abandoned the struggle the consequences would be obvious. The Red march would continue farther, with Burma, Malaya and other territories the probable successive victims.

The United States has not been unmindful of this. That country is, indeed, spending nearly $2 billions a year in support of the French struggle. But money and supplies inevitably are not enough. The U.S. is again coming face to face with the 1940 problem—that you cannot make somebody else fight a war for you. The West cannot tell France to fight on indefinitely in Indo-China to protect the free world.

We therefore have the paradox that while President Eisenhower is making it plain that there is no intention in Washington to intervene directly in the fighting—that is, to send combat troops—State Secretary Dulles is warning Peking that active Chinese participation will not be tolerated. He used the threat of "united action" against such a move—and he used it after consultation with other nations closely concerned in south-east Asian developments.

United Strength

Said Mr. Dulles on Friday: "This Government believes that if all the free people who are threatened now unite against the threat, it can be ended."

France and Britain, however, appear reluctant to issue formal warning before the Geneva meeting for fear it might decrease the chances of ultimate agreement.

That, then, is the situation as the powers prepare to meet in Geneva next April 26. The question of a Korean settlement will also be discussed, but the Indo-China problem, with the guns still thundering at Dien Bien Phu, has overshadowed this phase of the conference.

Yes, the aerid odor of Indo-Chinese cordite will be strong in the conference halls. But back of it a still greater Pacific-born cloud will hover, the hydrogen bomb dust pall, ever present in the minds of the conferees. For failure to disperse the former might well bring on the latter, and the dying of Dien Bien Phu be extended to all the world.—B. A. T.

ALL THINGS CONSIDERED — By STUART KEATE

A Ride in the Sky

EDMONTON—Thursday afternoon ex-Alderman Percy Scurrah and I sailed past each other at an altitude of 6,300 feet. I was dropping, and he was climbing.

Wait a minute. Let's start that all over again. Thursday afternoon ex-Alderman Percy Scurrah and I sailed past each other at an altitude of 6,300 feet. I was dropping, and he was climbing.

There it is. I've written it twice now. It's true—and I still don't believe it.

We were riding the world-famed Mount Norquay ski lift, as guests of the Calgary Chamber of Commerce, with nothing to save us from the snow and sky but a few slats for a seat and a piece of pipe to hang onto.

Keate

Percy made quite a picture as he was hauled aloft on the cable. He was wearing his familiar black Homburg hat and puffing a cigar in an amber holder. His legs were encased in a rug. As he came abreast of my chair he leaned back at a jaunty angle, flicked the ash from his cigar, and grinned expansively.

Behind him was a panorama of staggering beauty. Far below was the picture-postcard town of Banff and over in the distance, the celebrated Banff Springs Hotel, a granite castle in a Graustarkian setting.

Rising in jagged eminence from the valley of the Bow River were the snow-capped peaks of Mount Rundle, the Sulphur and Fairholme ranges.

★ ★ ★

Throughout this goodwill "Daffodil tour" some of the young sprigs have been having fun kidding our elder statesmen about the hazards of the junketeering life. So, while we were dawdling over a cup of coffee in the chalet after the ride, I asked Percy Scurrah how he'd enjoyed the ski lift.

His eyes were dancing with the excitement. "Wonderful," he enthused.

"Frankly, Percy," I said, "my hat's off to you. I didn't expect you to submit yourself to that."

"Why not?" he demanded, hunching his shoulders aggressively. "I dunno," I said. "It just looked too tough."

"Nonsense," he bridled. "I'm always game for a new experience. In fact, I wouldn't mind going again."

"By the way, Percy," I murmured, "just exactly how old are you, anyway?"

A stubborn smile broke over his face and he began to shake his head. "None of your damned business," he roared.

The Mount Norquay hoist is by no means the longest in the world (3,174 feet) but it has a vertical lift of 1,240 feet and thus qualifies as the steepest. At the top of the lift you're 6,840 feet above sea level, which is just 300 feet below the highest peak on Vancouver Island—and it takes you exactly eight minutes to get there on the mechanical chair.

The boy running the machine told us that, at the height of the season, they handle 250 persons an hour and the fee is $1.50 a trip. Thus, in a busy day—if each passenger was a fresh customer, and not riding on special skiers' rates—the cables could gross in excess of $3,000. At that rate, it won't take long to ammortize the $160,000 initial cost.

★ ★ ★

My friend Percy was much taken with the economics of the gadet. In fact, he thinks it has an edge on the ladies' wear business.

"My, oh my," he exclaimed. "For that kind of money I would consider switching."

It's a good thing Percy's off the city council today. I can visualize him hatching a new enterprise for his beloved Point Ellice Bridge project—bucket seats whizzing over at the rate of 250 an hour.

And Percy standing at the other end, punching tickets at $1.50 a ride.

LONDON LETTER — By CHARLES WIDDUP

Coffee Clubs Return

LONDON—Eighteenth century London used to be famous for coffee clubs. Now they are coming back, though, alas, the sparkling conversation of classical men of letters will not be heard as once it was.

More than 70 have opened in the West End. More are springing up every month.

Students, fashion models, men about town sit perched on the high stools until the small hours, drinking coffee at 9d a cup.

All this is hitting the night clubs. Four of the most famous, including Ciro's, have closed.

For anecdotes of the famous, for a light-hearted background story of the war, there will probably be nothing written to better Noel Coward's latest piece of autobiography "Future Indefinite."

Noel tried hard to get into the war. He even went to see Sir Winston Churchill, who gravely advised him to join the navy—as a singer. For Noel was known as a kingpin in the show business and people politely raised eyebrows in disbelief when he suggested that he should do something else.

So Noel just went round the world entertaining the troops with his own particular brand of light cynicism.

Perhaps the greatest tragedy of the whole war to Coward was the death of the Duke of Kent in an air crash. The Duke and Noel had been friends since 1923. A supper date had been arranged only a day or two after the crash on a lonely Scottish mountain.

"My heart ached for the poor Duchess," wrote Coward. "And I could think of no articulate words to write to her.

"Memories of her unfailing sweetness to me ever since I first met her in London after her engagement flooded into my mind; memories of all the happy times the three of us had had together in the following years; the twinkle in the eye suddenly caught on grand occasions; the absurd word games played on quiet evenings; the irrelevent jokes, all the fun, now tragically over."

First big stage flop of 1954 has brought an unusual sequel. With a long list of best-selling novels and many stage successes behind him, Mr. J. B. Priestley, author of "The Good Companions," is now ruefully recovering from a play venture that flopped after five performances.

He wrote "The White Countess" with his wife Jacquetta Hawkes. The critics didn't pull their punches. They called it "vague, dull, absurd, tedious, wearisome." One advised him: "Leave adultery to Graham Greene. Go back to your good companions."

The day after the flop Priestley, from his Isle of Wight home, surprised the world by accusing a bunch of "hostile" playgoers of killing his play. He says: "They went to the theatre determined in advance not to like the play. They created a wrong atmosphere, which among an audience of 1,000 or so can do a great deal of harm."

U.S. Merchant Mariner Produces Graphic Story of Pacific War

AWAY ALL BOATS, by Kenneth Dodson; Little, Brown & Co. (Canada) Ltd., 508 pp., $4.50.

Although he himself is probably, and with justification, well satisfied, it is impossible not to feel sorry for the above-named author.

It is evident he spent many years writing this book and in the process saw the appearance of The Cruel Sea (Nicholas Monserrat) and The Caine Mutiny (Herman Wouk).

Away All Boats has in it something of both those great books but Messrs. Monserrat and Wouk are professional writers who were drawn to the sea by the accident of war whereas Mr. Dodson is a professional sailor who took to writing in an avowed attempt to emulate his boyhood hero, Joseph Conrad.

He is not yet a Conrad, nor even a William McFee (Casuals of the Sea, etc.), but it is a safe prediction that if this first book can survive under the shadow of The Caine and Cruel Sea he will become a highly successful author.

KENNETH DODSON

Away All Boats is the story of the U.S. Army attack transport Belinda whose sole job in the Pacific War was to carry to the about-to-be-stormed beaches, whole regiments of soldiers and drop them overside in lumbering, amphibious landing craft.

Protagonist, if indeed he can be so-called, is a peacetime merchant mariner, Lieut. Dave McDougall and it is his wartime career during the life of the Belinda that holds a thin line of narrative throughout the 508 pages. (The line, in fact, is a thong on which Mr. Dodson has strung a collection of bright, episodic trinkets.)

It has no right to hold either itself together or a reader's interest but it does both, amazingly.

When you first dip into the book you will be inclined to dismiss it as too much like the two best-sellers already mentioned to be anything but a rehash. It will be a pity if you don't try a few more pages.

GOOD STORIES

The book is packed with good stories, peopled by vividly portrayed personalities and written in a style so forthright and disingenuous that you will be gripped as though you were hearing a viva voce account.

Inside cover maps of the Pacific show the to and fro track of the Belinda from her shakedown voyage in 1943 to her rendezvous with a Kamikaze plane in April, 1945.

Meanwhile she has been under two captains, USN Academy graduates, her first transferred to a huge shore training establishment, her second dead, partly of a wound suffered when the Kamikaze struck and partly of incipient insanity induced by what is pictured—and what must in fact have been in many life cases—the awful pressure and loneliness of command responsibility.

The lives of all aboard the Belinda from the colored messboys up to the commissioned occupants of the wardroom are drawn with a convincing fidelity and the battle scenes are as authentic as only participation in them by the author could have made them.

None of the horror and degradation of war is spared nor any of its noble tragedies slighted. The irrepressible humor latent in any crowd of physically fit young men bubbles up occasionally to leave you chuckling.

PACIFIC CAMPAIGN

Parallel to his story the author has traced an accurate sketch of the master plan behind the Pacific campaign; the island hopping, the quick, shattering blows at vital points from the Gilberts to the final assault on Okinawa, the blow that spelled defeat for the Japanese even before the atom bombs fell on Nagasaki and Hiroshima.

His captain dying, MacDougall, in actual command, coaxes and cajoles his waterlogged, flame-blackened Belinda into anchorage in a sheltered cove. Whether she can be sailed across the ocean to dry-dock is another matter, but with the war ending, Belinda's story ends—and a thoroughly readable and satisfying story it was.

I wouldn't have missed it for anything and I hope Hollywood doesn't try to make a movie of it. It's too good for that shocking fate.—AMT.

Sordid Drama Of Brooklyn In Evil Era

THROUGH MIDNIGHT STREETS, By Joseph Meagher, Little, Brown and Co. (Canada) Ltd. 299 pp. $4.25.

Hustlers, hangers-on, street-fighters, beached sailors, lost souls and hoodlums crowd the stage for this sordid drama of a dark place and an evil era.

The big scene is the Rochambeau, a "joint" near the Brooklyn waterfront called a hotel because people sleep there, but having the combined attributes of a madhouse, a criminals' hide-out and a death-trap for the unwary.

Although a number of characters weave independent threads through the stuff of the story, chief interest lies in the personal tragedy of one, Lloyd Kleinhardt, a big handsome man, apparently a successful accountant.

TAKES WRONG TURN

We soon learn that he is a pathological drunkard and that when he says goodbye to his wife in their more or less plush apartment for what he calls a business trip, he heads straight for the Rochambeau, books a room and drinks himself into insensibility, emerging a few days later white and shaking.

He comes to an end that is literally worse than death at the hands of the Rochambeau's proprietor, an English fugitive from justice and about as slimy and hypocritical a character as anything in modern fiction.

There is some relief from the almost overwhelming atmosphere of gloom the author has built up, in regeneration of another man, a young fellow who comes close enough to the edge of self-induced disaster not to deserve the happy lot that awaits him at the book's end.

A wealthy old recluse in love — maternally — with a young thug, a succession of women and girls, cripples and hunchbacks, totter, slither and stumble in and out of the plot at their various gaits.

It is reasonable to suppose all of them could be found in a place like Brooklyn but it strains the imagination to picture them in contact with each other to the extent that their ultimate fates are interwoven.

Midnight Streets, apparently, is a first novel and it seems to this reader that the author has tried to put too much into it. He shows a marked gift of characterization and a good sense for the dramatic moment—but in his construction he has left too many loose ends lying about.—AMT.

STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

Our new postage rates will, as usual, result in several surcharges, though as far as known no stamps will be affected. The revalued items will be the 3c postcards and envelopes, which are now unsaleable in their present condition.

According to a correspondent in Ottawa, all stocks of 3c envelopes (which come in two sizes) will be sent back to the Post Office Department, where they will be overprinted with a rectangle containing the words "Canada 5c Postes—Postage—Revalued." The 3c postcards will be changed to 4c by a similar surcharge, in the case of packets of single cards as sold at the wickets. But the sheets of 8, 16 or 32 cards (which is the form in which they are printed before cutting into singles) will receive a large "4c" impressed on each card, instead.

There will therefore be four new stationery items, all of a temporary nature, which collectors will want to have. Do not write to the Philatelic Section at Ottawa for these, as they do not stock postal stationery any more. They will all be available at our own PO in due course.

Another new denomination seems to be in the offing, for the rate for foreign countries has now jumped to 6c for the first ounce, plus 4c per additional ounce. (The 5c rate applies to all North and South America, the countries of the British Commonwealth, France and Spain. All others take the 6c rate.) This comes as rather a surprise, as no mention was made of this rate when the other details were released to the press, as far as the writer knows. The 6c stamp, if it appears, will probably not come out in a hurry, as the new rate will help to unload the millions of surplus 3c that must be on hand all across the country, by using them in pairs.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

It's the old story. A man has to die before the world recognizes his true worth. He has to be taken away and a void left behind him before we realize how much he was adding to the richness of our lives. Not always is this true. Any quibbler could show the exceptions, but, especially in the field of letters—indeed all the arts—the old cliche still applies.

It applies particularly to poets.

I am thinking, of course, of Dylan Thomas. This stout, cherubic fellow, with the bushy hair and the pleasure-loving mouth and the penetrating eye, was only 39 when he died last November. Except to a few students of modern poetry and that not too well defined group which is conveniently (and often inaccurately) called the "avant-garde," his was a name hardly known to most of the men and women in the English-speaking world who make some claim to civilization. Most of these semi-literates know about Old Man Hem because he was in the picture magazines and William Faulkner because he won a Nobel Prize and about at least one of the Sitwells (Edith, Obert and Sacheverell) because . . . well, because they are so spectacularly (and promotion-wise), eccentric, but nobody much has time for a poet. Not until he dies, that is.

Posthumous Popularity

And Dylan Thomas died. Now everybody who is some sort of friend to the arts is climbing on the bandwagon. A check at half a dozen of the country's leading retail outlets for records reveals that they have had a substantial number of requests for the few recordings he made reading his poems. (Incidentally, Thomas had one of the most magnificent, wide-ranging voices I have ever heard). The magazines are taking him up and so far this year I have read eight articles about the late British poet. People are buying and talking about his work and a fund has been set up in Britain and the U.S.A. for the relief of his widow and three children.

I haven't seen any of them yet, but I have already heard of three books projected or on the press about this suddenly-famous poet.

Now don't think for a moment either that I am minimizing the work of a great poet or that I disapprove of any of the efforts to recognize what was truly a mighty genius. If there is a touch of bitterness in what I have just written it is not for what is being done but for the delay in the doing of it.

However, never yet have I heard of any way to make people aware of the good efforts of struggling writers. Apparently it is just the way the world runs and the creator has to reconcile himself to sitting it out with the hope that his work will be recognized by more than a perceptive few before he is finally put six feet under.

Another Book on India

Mother India note: There seems to be a mild rash of interest in India this season. It started with E. M. Forster's "The Hill of Devil" and continues into spring with Emily Hahn's "James Brooke of Sarawak and John Master's "Bhowani Junction." This last is a novel and a right good one, with a strong emotional background as well as an authentic geographical one. Didn't think much of Miss Hahn's pukka sahib.

The only Canadian I have ever heard of who had a big hand in founding four Canadian universities has finally been well and exhaustively handled in what ought to be his definitive biography. The man was Henry Marshall Tory and one of his old stund, E. A. Corbett, is the author.

This is the same Corbett who last year published "Father, God Bless Him," a reverent and hilarious reminiscence which Ned knocked off while he was gathering material for the Tory book.

The best juvenile I've seen so far this year is Benjamin Elkin's "The Loudest Noise in the World." For sheer fun as a read-aloud book this one takes all the medals I know, and the tremendous illustrations of James Daugherty put it into first-rank for a look-at-book too. For good measure, there is a nice little moral which applies to both the grown-ups and the kids. This is a beauty for an Easter gift for some lucky youngster.

Last week a couple of eager young chaps in the Opposition took another stab at crime books and tried to get the penalties made stiffer. I'm not going to get into this argument again but I'm not so disinterested in the matter as most Canadian legislators seem to be. When the vote was taken the proposal was defeated 35 to 16—a total of 51 interested members. A nice footnote to the Massey Commission Report!

JOHNNY FORESAKEN by G. B. Stern, Collins, Toronto. 236 pages, $3.

With 20 books and half a dozen biographies to her credit, G. B. Stern has well earned her rating in England as one of the most popular writers of the day.

"Johnny Foresaken" is a story rich in humor with just enough well-drawn characters for the reader to feel he knows them all personally long before he reaches the surprising ending.

Johnny is the vice-president and leader of a small English coast town dramatic society and the story is of the ups-and-downs of the society and the romances and trials of the members of it. Scintillating character in the story is the mysterious interloper, Eugenia Czelova of a cosmopolitan stage family whom the author made popular in an earlier book.

Princess' Death Leap

McIntyre Bluffs near Oliver, B.C.

By C. P. LYONS

"Beautiful Princess Leaps to Death" might have been the bold headline several hundred years ago if the Okanagan Indians had had a newspaper.

Lyons

Like a number of high cliffs in B.C., McIntyre Bluffs or Lover's Leap near Oliver has several legends woven about it. This bulwark of rock rising 850 feet above the valley floor has the standard story of the beautiful Indian princess who, thwarted in love by the death of her lover, jumped off to end it all.

However, there is an authenticated case of a great battle fought on its heights. A large war party of Shuswap Indians from the northern section of the valley stealthily made their way across the upper plateau and camped on top of the bluff to observe their intended victims in the valley below. But their cautious movements were detected by the Okanagans who carefully surrounded them at night and then attacked them just before daybreak. Most of the Shuswaps, unfamiliar with the ground, were frightened over the high cliff. Others having hidden behind rocks were spotted as daylight broke and were quickly shot. A few of the party escaped but most of them, including the war chief, were killed.

Another interesting aspect of McIntyre Bluffs is that this protruding ridge of rock juts well out into the Okanagan Valley. In doing so it is believed it formed a plug or gate which retained the southern end of a great valley glacier once occupying Okanagan Lake. The river draining this ice mass is thought to have cut a long, deep trench out of the solid rock. This most unusual feature is found in the high mountains to the left in the picture.

AUDREY SAYS

Perfect but Unassuming Artist Was Least Appreciated of All

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

The musical season of 1953-54 in this city is nearly over now — though the curtain cannot be considered finally closed until the conclusion of the Musical Festival which will occupy several days from April 29 to May 7.

Johnson

However, the professionals have made their last entry and withdrawn until another fall season rolls around. Fewer internationally known artists visited Victoria this year and unfortunately those that came were badly bunched in the space of five weeks.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

It seems to me that each artist gave those who were able to attend their particular concert, something rather special. With the possible exception of Moiseiwitsch, who was certainly not at the top of his form for his Victoria appearance.

But it also seems to me that only one purely perfect artist was presented. By this I do not mean to belittle Sayao or Warfield, for example, who reminded us all how much more there is to singing other than vocal grandeur and gymnastics.

Flaws, artificialities, clever subterfuges were still apparent here and there, however.

LIKE UNSULLIED GOLD

So with all said and done, shining like unsullied gold, all dross and impurity swept away, we have only Andres Segovia.

I know. Many of you were bored before the evening was half over! The guitar is not a spectacular instrument. The tiny, delicate tone was often no more than a thread of sound in the big theatre.

The description, "World's Foremost Master of the Spanish Guitar," led you to expect possibly exciting, pulsing rhythms, a flamboyant personality? Instead a quiet-mannered elderly man, looking something like a modern clad Schubert or Beethoven, played classics like exquisite miniatures, contemporary music that was a subtly involved filigree of theme and counter-theme.

MEMORY LINGERS

In spite of the fact that the guitar is not, and never will be, my favorite instrument, this is the concert I will remember when all the others have faded into a more-or-less common background.

To tell the world that the Spanish guitar is worthy of being regarded as a major instrument—that it is capable of producing ineffably lovely music and not just a strummed version of folk melodies and dances—have been his foremost purpose.

Less dedicated artists with an eye principally on more and greater tours and fatter fees, as well as the wide popularity necessary to maintain profitable radio and TV contracts, inevitably make use at times of the easy way.

They storm the emotions of their audience with all the tricks of virtuosity at their command; they call on visual as well as aural appeal with dramatics that are often quite logical yet purely external in relationship to the music.

They even abandon their program standard to present tasteless encores as a sort of sop to popularity.

ON HIGHEST LEVEL

Segovia, on the other hand, performing on the highest level of musicianship, never so much as bent his eyes downward. The miracles of execution he accomplished were not showy but any guitarist will tell you that his tonal variations and handling of double melodies and rich chordings were an all but impossible feat.

He exploited every facet of the instrument without deviating a hair from the realm of good taste. Unlike the artist who throws his performance at his audience in "another day, another dollar" frame of mind, Segovia loved every note and phrase and played them as though this were the only and most precious moment in all eternity.

He was the perfect artist, yet because perfection is not a popular commodity, he was probably the least appreciated of all.

ROSEMARY MALKIN

Totem Offers London Hit

Totem Theatre, which last week was saved from closure in Victoria by a last-minute reprieve, bounces back into full swing again on Monday with a brand new play which makes its first stage showing here.

Leslie Storm's gripping "Black Chiffon," which was a leading London success with Flora Robson as its star, will be produced under the guidance of Arngrim and Baker with the latter directing. It is a moving drama of a wealthy matron who suddenly turns thief and shoplifts a black chiffon nightdress—is it kleptomania or is there another darker solution lurking in the well-respected Christie home?

The story unfolds to its unexpected climax, interpreted by a cast which includes Rosemary Malkin as the mother, Sam Payne, Jack Droy and Thor Arngrim, Barbara MacLeod and Kitty Dutcher.

A well-known Victoria actress who has recently returned from a busy schedule touring the provinces in England, Moyra Mulholland, appears as Totem's guest, giving a carefully-thought-out performance in the part of the daughter, Thea.

The play, a beautifully blended work of laughter and tenderness has settings by Charles Allen, who will leave shortly to join the Stratford Festival cast.

Doreen Cunningham, contralto soloist, will be an assisting artist on the program featuring B.C. Electric Ladies' Glee Club of Vancouver, which is being held in First Baptist Church Saturday evening, April 24 at 8.15. Miss Cunningham is a recent newcomer to the West Coast, but has been featured on many CBC broadcasts from eastern Canada. She is scheduled to appear as guest soloist with Vancouver Symphony Orchestra in Stanley Park this summer.

Two FOR THE Show

By PHIL LEE

AA—Oscar Class. A—Don's Miss. BB—Worthwhile. B—For a Rainy Afternoon. C—To Put in Time

(A) "HIS MAJESTY O'KEEFE" (Royal): "Master Sergeant" Burt Lancaster of "From Here to Eternity" fame discards his habiliments of restraint for this wild swashbuckler about a man who becomes king of a Pacific island and seems to enjoy the change no end as will the paying customers.

Although the film has a tendency to stretch one's imagination somewhat, actually there was a gentleman named O'Keefe who once gamboled about much like Lancaster. After knowing that, well, nothing seems to matter.

The plot in brief:

After losing his ship to mutineers O'Keefe (Lancaster) arrives at the island of Yap. Here a fortune in copra awaits the man who has the ambition and know-how to get the natives to pick and prepare the cocoanuts that yield this product.

Doesn't sound too exciting, does it? But believe us when we say the picture fairly bristles with action when the natives turn against O'Keefe and his crew. Then throw in some sea-going ruffians and German marines and you have quite a rip-snorter. Nonetheless His Majesty still finds time to woo and wed lovely native girl Joan ("The Story of Robin Hood") Rice and dally with another.

The excitement of the action is matched by the colorful and imaginative photography.

Admirers of Lancaster and lovers of action should enjoy this one to the full.

Art in Review

By COLIN GRAHAM

There is a feeling of gusty expansiveness, of bigness if you like, about the "Canadian Painting, 1953" exhibition now entering its third week at the Arts Centre.

This is a feeling which has been generally absent from the group or society exhibitions seen hereabouts in the last couple of years.

We were beginning to wonder, in fact, whether Emily Carr and the Group of Seven were to remain the only ones with the boldness to throw off habitual Canadian constraint and let themselves go.

But now, it seems, our younger painters have been emboldened by what they have seen and learnt in other lands and have set out to create works on an exhibition scale. What is more to the point, they seem to have the power and resource to carry these ambitions through to, on the whole, successful conclusions.

OUTSTANDING

Jack Shadbolt's "Presence After Fire" is a case in point. One of the largest water colors yet seen here, it launches into a bold statement that is fully sustained by a complex mastery of form and technique and a message that operates richly on several levels of meaning.

Harold Town's "Still Life" is another big work that comes off successfully. Dense in texture and with a personal handling of form, it discloses resources of a depth very promising in so youthful an artist and suggests that Town, a personality new to us here, is definitely a man to watch.

Paul-Emile Bouduas, possibly the only Canadian painter yet to achieve a style in which one can detect no influences whatever, has long demonstrated his ability to work successfully on a substantial scale. His "Eruption Imprevue" in the present show fully confirms that fact.

Another large still life by a young easterner new to the west, Jean-Phillippe Delaire, is a handsome and knowing piece of construction, even though it does lean toward an academic and decorative species of cubism.

All these paintings satisfyingly fill the large amount of space enclosed in their format. Proof of this in the negative sense is supplied by the large still life by Stanley Cosgrove, a painter who has sent us more more substantial work in the past. Here, his form and substance are manifestly too thin for the scale he has chosen to work with. The same can be said of Rheaume's enormous Matisse-like "La Femme bleu au Hamac."

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Sunday and Monday Identical Concerts

I have been asked so many times now questions relating to the new series of Sunday afternoon concerts which are to begin next season, that I want to devote some space this week to them. In the past, as many of you know, we have played concerts especially for students on four Sunday afternoons during the season.

I am now asked whether the proposed eight Sunday afternoon concerts are an extension of the students' concerts, only now open to the general adult public as well. The answer is no. Let me make the distinction quite clear.

Beginning next season, the eight Sunday afternoon concerts are exact repeat concerts of the eight Monday evenings. These will be regular adult subscription concerts, in every way identical with the Monday evening concerts as to programs, guest artists, guest conductors, etc.

Gruber

Plans for another series of students' concerts have not yet been finalized. But if they do take place again—and we certainly hope they will—they will be held on different and alternate Sunday afternoons from the new Sunday and Monday pairs of adult subscription series. And, as in the past, they will be open only to students registered at schools, and the only adults permitted will be interested teachers who will volunteer for supervisory duties. In short, the students' concerts will continue to be held quite separately from both Sunday and Monday adult subscription series.

To Have Guest Conductors

The other question I am often asked is whether the Sunday afternoon concerts are to be in any way different from the Monday evenings. I see that I have already answered that in an earlier paragraph; but, to make this point quite clear also, the answer is again no. This is implied in the fact that ticket prices remain exactly the same for both Sundays and Mondays. The programs will be identical in every detail, and it is hoped to preserve also the same atmosphere.

I know many of you are interested in hearing about who our guest artists will be. To begin with, there will be, for the first time, guest conductors during the season. Each one of three guest conductors will, of course, conduct both the Sunday and the Monday subscription concerts. The first one to appear will be Geoffrey Waddington, who will take over the third pair of subscription concerts, on Sunday and Monday, November 14 and 15. Next will be our own Clifford Evens and Clayton Hare of the Calgary Symphony, who will take over one pair of concerts each later in the season.

A number of instrumental soloists are now being invited; they will be mostly again young Canadian artists, and, as in the past, they will not necessarily be chosen for the fame of their names. Rather, they will be selected from a group who are fully ready and qualified to play such concertos as we are now choosing for next season's programs. Also, it is hoped that we can again assign instrumental concertos to some of our own orchestral musicians. The fact is that specific programs and definite guest artists have not yet been fully decided upon, though arrangements and plans in this regard are my main concern at this very time. We shall, of course, inform you further the moment matters have been finalized.

Gosley Show to Hit TV

The fact that Jerry Gosley's "Smile Show" has not been seen in action in Victoria recently, does not mean that it is hibernating. Actually the troupe has been kept busy visiting different parts of the province including Vancouver, and such outlying points as Port Hardy and Powell River. Week-end visits have been planned at up-Island cities and at Ganges.

While the group is, by popular demand, still playing the show they took out to Korea, they are busy between visits rehearsing new songs, routines and instrumental numbers which they will also adapt to radio, and a future TV appearance.

A new character sketch routine by Gosley, is entitled "I'm Going to Swim the Straits of Juan de Fuca."

CHORAL SOCIETY ANNUAL

Annual meeting of the Victoria Choral Society is set for Tuesday at 7.30 p.m. It will be held in the Memorial Hall, Vancouver Street, and it is hoped that it will be fully attended by members who are concerned with the future and development of the organization. Important business, including the election of officers for the ensuing year, will be on the agenda.

ONE TRACK MIND

Louis Hayward, who stars in the RKO release, "The Saint's Girl Friday," is one of the few top actors whose entire career has been devoted to acting. The only interruption in his thespian career was in Second World War when he saw active service as a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps.

The RECORD SHOP

By RICHARD KLEINER

In 1953, many new sounds came along on records. There were barks and echoes and groans and others too noisy—if not noisome—to mention. But the one that may have the most lasting effect on pop music was a simple vibrato (pulsating effect) in the throat.

On one end of this throat is a harmonica. The other end is the property of Richard Hayman. Combine Hayman, harmonica and throat and you have the smooth, unharmonicalike sound that made "Ruby" one of '53's top hits.

"I tried to make a sound that doesn't sound like a harmonica," says Harman, a youthful, studious-looking man, who takes his harmonica seriously. "That throat vibrato seems to give it a warm tone."

Warm is an understatement; it turned out to be hot. After "Ruby" came others like "Off-Shore," and now Hayman's Mercury release of 'Sadie Thompson's Song" and "Drive-In" is around to sell more harmonicas.

Hayman is a self-taught harmonicker who was with Borrah Minnevitch's Harmonica Rascals in the good old days when they paid more attention to their harmonicas than their rascality.

"I'd been looking for a long time for a song," he says, "which would be good for a harmonica record. 'Ruby' was it, but, frankly, I was surprised that it was such a hit. We knew it was good and had a different sound, but we didn't think it would be as big as it was."

Irish Drill for Opening Night Date

Spring is in the air and it brings with it not only warmer weather but a taste of the 1954 Victoria Shamrocks. The Irish, Mann Cup finalists last year, are working out strenuously at Memorial Arena three nights a week in preparation for their season that starts April 28 at home. Rocks, with most of last year's best players returning to the fold and several valuable imports, will be in the role of defending champions this year and are taking their position seriously. Seen here doing wind sprints in Friday night's practice are returnees Archie Browning, Larry Booth, Bill Bamford, Al Gill, Harry Irwin, Jackie Northup and Jack Thompson. Canadian Booters To Tour Australia

All-Star Team May Travel in '55

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official of the British Columbia Soccer Commission predicted Friday night that a Canadian all-star soccer team will tour Australia in 1955.

Commission secretary Dave Fryatt announced that an official invitation from the Australian soccer commission will be the major topic considered at the annual meeting at Banff, Alta., next week of the Football Association of Canada.

Fryatt, a member of the association's foreign relations board, said the Australians have asked for a Canadian all-star team to make a 10-week tour of their country, similar to one made 30 years ago. Fryatt said the tour might be reduced because of financial reasons.

"It's far too long for players to be off work. Unless the Aussies can compensate us financially for the time off, the trip would have to be cut to a month or six weeks."

RECIPROCAL DEAL

The B.C. official said the tour would be a reciprocal arrangement, with an Australian all-star club making a tour of Canada possibly later in 1955 or in 1956.

The Canadian team would presumably be picked mostly from representatives of the two clubs in the dominion fields, scheduled here this year.

WHERE IT DOESN'T PAY TO BE ABLE TO PAY

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle park board decided Thursday to ban motorized carts from its public golf links.

The reasoning:

Anybody who can afford that kind of transportation can also afford membership in a private golf club.

Colwood Golfers Find Empress Habit-Forming

If Colwood Golf Club members don't use a little discretion they may be asked to refrain from entering future Empress Golf Tournaments for being too successful.

However, although this isn't really likely to happen, Colwood for the past two years has dominated the men's event.

Last year it was Colwood's Bill McColl against Vic Painter in the final with McColl winning the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy.

This year it's once more an all-Colwood affair, with George Goodwin and Gordie Greenwood of the suburban course taking over where McColl and Painter left off last year. They met in the championship finals today.

Goodwin, who plays to a 22 handicap, defeated Pross Clark of Portland in the semifinals Friday after being all square at the turn. Greenwood took a three-hole lead over Tacoma's Bud Anderson on the first nine and maintained his advantage to win by a 3 and 2 margin. Greenwood plays to an 11 handicap and was to give Goodwin nine shots today.

DOUBLE ?

And the parallel continues even more as Mrs. Gordon Greene of Seattle today stood on the threshold of a second straight victory.

Last year's champion, Mrs. Greene, Friday gained the finals again by coming from behind to defeat Mrs. T. Window of Port Angeles, 3 and 2. Mrs. Greene trailed by two holes at the eighth but came on strongly on the back nine.

Her opponent today was Mrs. H. G. Mearns of Victoria Golf Club. Mrs. Mearns defeated Mrs. R. Thorpe of Seattle, 3 and 2.

A swimming team to compete in the annual inter-high school gala at Crystal Garden Wednesday was chosen.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Southpaw Joe Page, ex-New York Yankee relief pitcher, figures his flinger is as good as new and barring an unforeseen complication he should be wearing a Pittsburg Pirates uniform on opening day.

Page, bidding for a comeback with the Pirates at the ripe old age of 36, reports "I haven't had one bit of trouble with the arm this spring."

The former Yankee relief artist showed up at the Pirates' training camp in Florida and asked general manager Branch Rickey for a comeback chance. Rickey told Page to go ahead.

BRAVES DRAW 30,000 WITHOUT EVEN PLAYING

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The shouts of 30,000 baseball fans lining a 25-block parade route through the heart of the city Friday welcomed Milwaukee Braves home from their spring training.

"We're a first-division ball club again," manager Charlie Grimm told a crowd packed in the Northwestern Depot after the team's train pulled in from Chicago. "I think you'll be happy again in September."

Gordie Chan Threat For B.C. Paddle Title

A new British Columbia men's singles table tennis champion will be crowned tonight at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club. And youthful Gordie Chan is now rated as the favorite to capture the award.

Chan, formerly of Hong Kong, scored a startling upset in the annual B.C. table tennis championships Friday night when he eliminated defending champion Gerry Addy of Vancouver, 11-21, 21-17, 21-18, 6-21, 21-17.

The youthful Chinese then moved into the semifinals with a straight games victory over Fred Ward of Vancouver and is scheduled to meet Tom Phillips of Portland, who ousted Art Barran of Vancouver.

Carl Cole, Pacific Northwest titlist, beat Sam Houston of Vancouver and will exchange shots in the semis with Victoria's Art Ngai, who decisioned Portland's Bob Hage in one of the closer matches of the day.

NANCY IN FINAL

Women's defending champion Nancy Craig of Victoria moved into the women's final by posting a victory over Victoria's Valerie Druce in semifinal action. She will be given a stern test in the final by Chris Erickson, Swedish ladies' champion from 1946 to 1950, now playing out of Seattle. The Seattle ace has competed in world championship play three times and is favored to cop the title.

Miss Erickson, holder of the Seattle and Western Oregon championships, eliminated Victoria's Betty Yardley in straight games.

In the men's A singles, Keith Olson, Ray Dawson, Wayne Chew and Dave Lowe, all of Victoria, moved into the semifinals. Victoria's Laurie Greenwood won from Lee Buck of Seattle to advance against Alf Holmwood, also of Victoria, in the senior men's singles final.

Miss Erickson teamed with Hage to defeat Victoria's Ed Ngai and Mrs. Druce and move into the mixed doubles final. Mrs. Craig and Art Ngai meet Gordie Chan and Miss Yardley in an all-Victoria semifinal today, winner advancing to the finals.

Addy and Barran of Vancouver defeated Dave Lowe and Charlie Ngai of Victoria in men's doubles action. They meet Hage and Phillips, who eliminated Ed and Art Ngai in semifinal play.

Bill Buck of Seattle downed Victoria's Brian Hobbs to capture the juvenile boys' singles title.

All championship finals are scheduled to commence at 7 tonight.

Inter-High Swim Gala Wednesday

High school swimming stars will be in the limelight Wednesday night at Crystal Garden when the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club sponsored annual inter-high school swimming gala gets under way.

Over 200 youthful competitors are expected to be on hand when competition commences at 7.15.

Entries from eight schools have been received and two schools have yet to enter for the annual gala. Central Jr. High School, Mount View High, Milnes Landing, Oak Bay Junior High, Esquimalt and Royal Oak have entered swimming teams.

Oak Bay, defending champions and holders of the Sir Edward Beatty Cup, have yet to enter a team and Victoria High had not entered this morning. Entries from these two schools are expected over the week-end.

S. J. Willis Jr. High School, winners of the junior high school meet and holders of the Dickinson & Dunn Trophy, are not entered.

South Park School's girls' relay team, winners of the elementary schools meet, will vie for the Pendray Cup, while Tillicum School boys' relay team will compete for the Canadian Legion Cup.

Match-Play Golf Draws Big Entry

Over 100 divoters, representing the best on Vancouver Island, will tee off Sunday morning in the qualifying round of the fifth annual Francis Vancouver Island Match Play Open Golf Tournament at Uplands Golf Club.

VIC PAINTER
. . . he'll be ready

Following completion of the qualifying round, the tourney alternates between other local courses with the finals being played at Victoria Golf Club on May 16.

To date 102 golfers have entered, 97 from Victoria clubs and five from the Cowichan Golf Club.

From Sunday's qualifying medal round, 32 golfers will go into the open championship and 32 will qualify for the handicap flight. Subsequent play will be conducted on a match play elimination basis.

Uplands' Bob Morrison will be defending his title won last year.

Bob Fleming, who lost to Morrison in the final last year, is expected to be the strongest threat, while Ted Colgate, 1952 winner, and Eric Hibberson, 1950 titlist, are also entered.

Of the local entries, Hugh Morrison, Vic Painter, Laurie Carroll, Frank Scroggs, Bill McColl, Jim Robertson and Joe Pryke are favored to give the winner a stern test. Cowichan's Gordon Whan is also expected to show well.

A limited number of post entries will be accepted.

Whitey Retains Lead In Times Fan Poll

Arnold Ferguson did not flag down Victoria Shamrocks teammate Whitey Severson in this week's race for the Times Amateur Athlete of the Year Award but the race became closer than it has ever been since it started last summer.

Last week Ferguson pulled to within 28 votes of Severson, leader since the beginning of the contest. However, Severson drew well this week in fan voting and although Ferguson drew closer, Severson still holds his lead.

Ferguson received 15 more votes than Severson this week and cut Severson's lead, which at one time was up in the hundreds, to a narrow margin of 13 votes.

It is strictly a two-man race now as the legion of fans of Severson and Ferguson compete to boost their choice into the first annual Times championship for the top city amateur star. The contest will close in June but a stirring race in the last months has been assured by recent voting.

'SORT OF LIKE A DREAM'

Billy Jo Leads Ben In Masters' Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—Amateur Billy Jo Patton pinched himself today and found he was leading the formidable Ben Hogan by a stroke at the halfway point of the 18th Masters golf tournament.

"It's sort of like a dream," said the 33-year-old Morganton, N.C., lumber man who puts the wood to the ball as it seldom been seen on the Augusta national course.

"Everything seems to be going my way," Patton added, "I have a feeling I'm lucky."

His luck, if that's what it was, came after he had bogeyed the last two holes yesterday to finish with a 74 and a par 144 for 36 holes. Then Hogan, with a chance to go a stroke ahead with pars, faltered on the same two holes to remain a stroke back with 73 and 145.

Patton thus shattered precedent on two points in the 18th playing of the high-test tournament founded by Bobby Jones. He is the first amateur to hold the lead through two rounds and it was the first time a par score stood up that far for the lead.

Preston No Pushover in Cup Finals

During the O.C. soccer season much has been written about the league leaders and cup finalists; West Bromwich Albion, and in the hurly-burly of a strenuous schedule perhaps there has been a tendency to overlook their opponents, proud Preston North End.

It is ironic indeed that West Bromwich, who have been favored to win the double of League and Cup honors, should meet Preston, for Preston was the first team in soccer history to accomplish this feat in 1889. The remarkable thing about this achievement was that they never lost a league game and did not concede a goal in cup play.

Preston, who have appeared in the final five times, were victorious again in 1938, when after playing to a scoreless tie in regulation time against Huddersfield Town, their Scottish international forward, George Mutch, scored in overtime from the penalty spot, much to the relief of thousands of Preston fans.

The present edition of Preston, however will have to be on top of their game May 1, for a glance at the First Division records reveals they are a team that seems unable to cope with weaker opponents, yet are capable of bursting forth with brilliant displays against more formidable opposition.

One cannot detract from the fact that Preston are worthy finalists. Perhaps the big turning point on their road to Wembley came after their fiercely contested sixth round games with Leicester City. Playing to a 1-1 tie at Leicester and drawing 2-2 at Preston's Deepdale ground, Preston emerged victorious at neutral Sheffield to the tune of 4-2.

This hectic struggle appeared to give North End the confidence required to beat Sheffield Wednesday in the ever-important semifinal, and the final 2-0 result proved that Preston were fully determined to equal last year's record of the Blackpool team and bring Lancashire its second cup in two years.

Considered the biggest factor in Preston's success is the return of England right-winger Tom Finney, who after being out of the game for over two months with a broken leg, has returned with a vengeance, displaying sparkling form.

Finney, a natural right-winger, is equally at home on the opposite flank, as proven by his England displays. With Matthews the automatic right-wing choice, Finney has been moved over to the left.

Besides Finney's great playmaking skill, he also has the knack of being able to put the ball in the net, as shown with his total of 102 post-war goals, scored while wearing the white shirt of Preston.

At the centre-forward position, Preston possesses one of the leading goal-scorers in present-day football, Charlie Wayman. The 5 feet 5 inch Wayman, who has to rely on brains and not brawn, has scored 295 goals in first-class competition.

At right half, Tom Docherty has made a great comeback from early-season injuries, and is now in the running for further Scottish international honors. He is held in high esteem at Deepdale, where he arrived from Glasgow Celtic for a mere $10,000 after the Scottish club maintained he was not big enough to stand the wear and tear of big-time soccer.

It must be obvious that these players, along with other stalwarts like Baxter, inside-left, and goalkeeper Thompson, give Preston a more than equal chance in their game with West Brom. Whatever the outcome, we shall wait with much interest for the final chapter of the 73rd annual English football classic to be completed.

A Week's Work

By DENNY BOYD

By DENNY BOYD

The most amazing things are happening these days in the world of show business and moguls and magnates of sports would be well-advised to keep an eye well-peeled on the trend.

We have long been of the opinion that athletes and show business mix like tripe and whipped cream.

It is true that Jack Dempsey at one time made a fair bundle of boodle by flexing his triceps in front of the footlights. However, Jack retired from the stage as the job required him to shave every week.

Ray Robinson is now devoting his energies to night-club tap-dancing but there have been no reports of Fred Astaire selling his tap-shoes in panic.

And having heard Arnie Ferguson warble, "You Call Everybody Sweetheart" under a shower the only thought that occurs is that Arnie Ferguson is indeed a ding-dong lacrosse player. However, he is a sadist when it comes to singing.

But now to the cases of Rocky Graziano and Toad Garnet. Strange cases but undeniably true ones.

Our most cherished memories of Rocky got back to Chicago in 1947 when the stubble-bearded, scowling Rock, as crude as a stone axe but twice as deadly, threw his crunching right club often enough that he relieved Tony Zale, the Pennsylvania steelworker, of his middleweight title.

Rocky Sure Could Fight, But . . .

You remember Rocky, the guy who would never wear a tie but buttoned up his collar for formal occasions; who was branded and bewildered at a phony bribe charge; who summed up all his feelings on being a world champion by saying simply, "I ain't never had nothin'."

We would like to remember Rocky that way but it ain't so Joe.

Last Saturday night, television committed the Martha Raye Show, an hour and a half epic of jibes and tomfoolery. Miss Raye, as well endowed with mouth as ever, pranced, danced and cavorted.

The program required that Miss Raye have a boy friend. And who was chosen for the role? Was it Sid Ceasar?, Milton Berle?, Groucho Marx? No. It was Rocky Graziano.

Rocky was dressed in a single-breasted suit, a dazzling white shirt and, will wonders ever cease, a carefully knotted tie.

Rocky nuzzled with Miss Raye, he knocked three men down at a single blow in defence of her honor and he gave way to uncontrolable spasms of mirth every time he uttered a line that was even remotely humorous.

But our worship of Rocky, which was not even dented when he lost his title and sank into anonymity, fell to pieces when he declared his love for Miss Raye. Placing a hairy hand on each of her ample shoulders, he gave her his most seductive look and entoned, "Mart'a, I dont want you should go out wit no udder guys."

Yes, Rocky used to be quite a guy and TV used to be quite a source of entertainment.

Toad's Talents Unrecognized

Still trembling from the shock of Rocky's demise, we attended the premiere of the Gilbert & Sullivan production, "The Gondoliers" and had our faith reaffirmed Monday night.

The fellow who performed the task was billed on the program as Lex Sutcliffe, but back a couple of years ago when he was one of Victoria's best young athletes, he was known as Toad Garnet.

Toad played the outfield for the war-time VMD senior amateur baseball team and sundry softball teams. He hurled bullet passes as quarterback for the Victoria Mustangs and was a standout basketball player. He was and still is a demon on the tennis and badminton court.

But he too has been bitten by the show-biz bug and whereas Rocky was allergic to the bite, Toad is thriving on it and shows signs of becoming a first-class hoofer.

As Antonio, a rapscallion of a Venetian canoe paddler, Toad skittered around in a spritely dance and in a mellow baritone voice, sang "The Merriest Fellows Are We," a ditty that extoles the life of ". . . loving and laughing and quipping and quaffing. . ."

Toad enjoyed himself and so did the audience.

Maybe he can't outbox Rocky, but Toad can out-entertain him, two to one. And you can't beat those odds.

Willie Told To Retire In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., former featherweight champion, was retired from boxing Friday in New York state as the result of an examination by state athletic commission physicians.

Pep was stopped in 1.53 of the second round by Lulu Perez at Madison Square Garden Feb. 26. The referee halted the fight on the automatic three-knockdown rule and Pep was suspended after the bout.

Bob Christenberry, commission chairman, made the suspension permanent on the recommendation of a report by Dr. Ira McCowan, medical director of the state athletic commission, and Dr. Mal Stevens, chief of the commission's medical advisory board.

"There comes a time when it is time to retire," Dr. Stevens said in his report. "I think Pep is over the hill."

Falk Paces Pin Parade

By RON COULTER

Do you veteran trundlers remember the first 600 tenpin series you rolled in league play?

You don't? Well, you probably went about it the same way as a popular second-year tenpinner in the Strathcona men's commercial section did Thursday night.

It was just an ordinary night for Bud Falk, lead-off man for Grand Spot News, when he stepped up to open the first game.

But when he concluded, three games and some two hours later, after rolling singletons of 213, 209 and 203 for a big 625 total, you could have knocked him over with a toothpick.

Bud went through just about all the first big night routines—chewing finger nails, pacing the aisle, crossing his fingers, and shedding some extra midriff from his 210-pound frame in the form of honest sweat.

Other top threes were rolled by Ron Wilson, 579; Ron McArthur, 573; Bill Coates, 570; Art Manson, 568, and Bob Lyons at 544.

Manson came in with a lofty 247 single, four pins short of Don McAlpine's 251 league record, while Wilson, 235; Vern Goudal, 226; Don Craig, 222; Lyons, 213, 207; Bill Coates, 204; Bob Bystedt, 203, and Jack Reimer at 202 added other high singletons.

Grand Spot News posted a new league scratch season single-game record of 950.

★ ★ ★

Connie McBeth, 594; Wilf Johnston, 591; Andy Palmer, 576; Bill Norris, 563; Nip Sage, 556, and Ron Wilson with a 554 triple, paced Gibson's senior division.

Johnston, 237; McBeth, 226; Sage, 213; Norris, 210; Palmer, 204, 201, and Ken Munn at 203, shot leading singles.

★ ★ ★

Ron Coulter led commercial tens with a 223 single and 593 total. Bill Mowat tallied 567 and George Savory racked up a 555 triple. Harvey Mayzes, 222; Mowat, 221, and Frank McClement at 205 fired other high singles.

Lolly Hughes claimed a 194 single and 490 triple to lead the women in mixed tenpin action. Wilbur Webb was tops for the men with a 223-one-game score and 562 total.

★ ★ ★

Eric Smith, 846; Jerry Devine, 763, and Cam Halliday at 704 sniped high totals in the mixed league. Denny Shubrook totaled 768 in the customs section.

★ ★ ★

Doug Spruston, 908; Wilf Smith, 818; Art Leech, 706, and Roy Morberg and Alex Lawrence, 700, pounded out high triples in the Capital City men's commercial division.

Jack Kaiser shot an 810 total in Monday mixed action, while Gordie Ball, 712 and Derek Todd at 700 posted other high threes. Harold Kellett hit for a 720 triple in the Evans-Coleman league.

★ ★ ★

Eric Chayko, 785, Alf Frewing, 756; Roy Jago, 745; Bob Elliott, 719; Ken Smith, 718; Cy Wallis, 715, and Doug Neff, 714, claimed high threes in the singles classic.

Jerry Devine, 785; Bob Elliott, 766; Bus Stoddart, 751; Phil Smith, 724; Art Marchant, 711, and Red Waggoner at 705, shot top totals in the major league.

Stan Jones, 760, and George Dean with a 748 triple paced the Forester's League. Doug Spruston, 777; Bob Miller, 760, and Lil Amor at 707 led the mixed commercial section. Jessie Kineard hit for a 731 total in afternoon women's action.

Nelson Near Western Final

Nelson Maple Leafs find themselves in the comfortable position of needing only a tie tonight to capture the B.C. senior hockey championship and the right to enter the western Canada Allan Cup finals.

The Leafs take on Penticton Vs at Trail in the sixth game of their best-of-seven semifinal series. Nelson took a commanding 3-1 lead, with one game tied, Friday night when they downed the Vs 4-2 before a packed house in Nelson.

The big break in the tightly-played contest came at 10.36 of the third period when Marty Burton rapped in the winning goal on a brilliant play with Herb Lovett.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Maroons require only a tie tonight in the seventh game of their western Canada Allan Cup semifinal series against Moose Jaw Millers to send them into the western finals.

Odie Lowe's Maroons lead the best-of-seven series 3-2 after Friday night's decisive 8-2 triumph. One game is tied. The winner of this series will meet either Nelson Maple Leafs or Penticton Vs in the western finals.

LACH MAY RETURN

Habs Return To Strength

By W. R. WHEATLEY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Some of the bedevilment that continually harasses National Hockey League coaches fastened itself today upon president Clarence Campbell, who doesn't know what to do with the Stanley Cup.

For the present, the emblem of hockey supremacy remains in a Montreal jewelry store, enshrouded with ifs.

If Jean Beliveau and Doug Harvey, cripples returned to action, can give Montreal Canadiens the needed zing, the cup-defending champions won't be so badly off and coach Dick Irvin will be happy.

If Gordie Howe, Ted Lindsay, Red Kelly and other less glamorous stars shine in full-season form, the worries of the favored Red Wings and coach Tommy Ivan will approach the vanishing point.

COULD BE TIED

More specifically, if Canadiens win tonight, the best-of-seven cup final will be all tied up at two games apiece and the shiny cup stays put in the jewelry store. The fifth game is scheduled Sunday at Detroit and the sixth, if the hockey fates will, Tuesday at Montreal.

If the Wings take tonight's tussle, Campbell must load the cup on the hockey-special Detroit train in order to provide for any contingency.

Coach Irvin said Friday that Beliveau and Harvey will be back in tonight's game. The towering rookie centre and the bumping defenseman missed the third game because of leg injuries.

There was also a possibility that a grizzled veteran might return in Canadiens' cause. There were howls from the fans for Elmer Lach Thursday night, when Canadiens suffered a 5-2 trouncing minus Beliveau and Harvey. If Lach is called on, a chance for him to wind up his hockey career in a blaze of glory rests with him.

Alston Pulls Surprise In U.S. Shuttle Meet

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UP) — Joe Alston, top domestic star who has been playing in the shadow of the heralded foreign players, today was given an even chance to outlast three of them, all champions, for the U.S. men's singles badminton title.

To accomplish this feat, the 27-year-old FBI agent from south Pasadena, Calif., must defeat Nandu Natekar of India, and either Malaya's Eddy Choong or Canada's Don Smythe, a formidable cast. But on the strength of his brilliant play Friday, many observers at the 14th annual amateur championships here thought he might do it.

Alston, former U.S. singles champ and three time doubles winner, was in the best form of his career Friday when he powned highly regarded Dave Choong of Malaya, 15-8, 15-7.

In the semifinals, Alston went against 20-year-old Natekar, who defeated Malaya's Ong Poh Lim, 15-13, 15-5.

Today's other singles match had the tourney favorite from Malaya, Eddy Choong, facing Smythe of Toronto, Ont.

The tricky little Malayan played faultlessly Friday in routing Trilon Seth of India, 15-10, 15-0. Smythe also had an easy time in his quarter-finals match, ousting Bobby Williams of Niagara Falls.

Main Defeated

SAN REMO, Italy (AP)—Tony Vincent of Miami was beaten by Italy's Marcello del Bello 7-5, 7-5, 6-2 in the quarter-finals of the international tennis tournament Friday.

In men's doubles Lorne Main of Toronto and Vancouver and Malcolm Fox of Baltimore eliminated France's Gil de Kermadec and Michel LeMasson 9-7, 6-4.

In a later match, Main and Fox lost to Ernst Buchholtz and Horst Hermann of Germany, 6-2, 2-6, 7-5.

Rosi 'Really Good' Says Sandy Saddler

NEW YORK (UP) — Paolo Rosi comes from Rieti, Italy, and still speaks broken English but his dynamic right hand—which accounted for his 22nd knockout in 26 pro bouts Friday night—was interpreted today as a definite threat for the world lightweight title.

Rosi used that lethal right hand to stop veteran Eddie Compo of New Haven, Conn., in 54 seconds of the sixth round last night in a televised and broadcast fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

"What a puncher! . . . this boy is really good," marveled world featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, who was among the ringside spectators.

The vanquished Compo, his left eye swollen and purplish after the battle, muttered:

"He ought to do all right. He sure hits hard enough. He has improved a lot since the first time I fought him."

Saddler's unbridled enthusiasm could be discounted partially inasmuch as the slender, semi-bald Rosi is his stablemate, but Compo, who has fought the best of them, including Willie Pep, had no reason to be prejudiced.

Compo lost a split decision to Rosi at Madison Square Garden last Dec. 18. It was the only one of six fights Rosi has engaged in since coming to the U.S. that he failed to register a knockout.

Hobson's Corner

By G. N. HOBSON

The Lower Vancouver Island Badminton League finals have turned out to be a marathon for two Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club teams in Division II. A playoff was indicated when the teams tied for first position. This was played and ended in a tie again, as did the second, and third joust.

On Monday, Jimmy Wells and his lads will met Len Tolson and his gang for what they hope is the last time. Cordova Bay justified the building of a new badminton hall by winning both the third and fourth divisions. Saanichton won the fifth, and Brentwood, too good to find an entry against them, automatically became winners of the first; a queer do.

At the Amphion Street Badminton Hall tonight, crowns will be knocked askew, won and lost by table tennis players from Seattle, B.C. and Manitoba. Line-up includes: Carl Cole, Portland, Pacific Northwest and Oregon State champion; Derek Glazer, Winnipeg, holder of the Manitoba singles crown; Art Ngai, Victoria and Vancover open champion, and Victoria's indefatigable Nancy Craig, defending women's singles champion. Put your money on the locals.

In badminton circles there is a youngster with a problem which is fast becoming perennial. Harvey Hurd, at 13, is one of the best shuttle players in B.C., and at the same time one of the most likely tennis prospects in Canada. His efforts in the recent junior badminton tourney, singles champ in three divisions, under 14, 16 and 18, prove the former, and the combined words of visiting tennis professionals last year confirm the latter. Harvey's problem, whether to play tennis or badminton, arises from the belief of champs in both sports that "you can't mix them and be the boss of either." At 13, when the future seems to be as remote as the stars, it is a difficult choice to make. Harvey loves both sports equally and is young enough to believe that things will work out themselves. They might, but since Hurd is Victoria's first up-and-coming for almost 20 years (that's right, 20 years), it seems to me that expert advice should be sought. Since Harvey is a natural for one of the other, he should, for his own good and that of sport, be helped to make his choice while he can, thus avoiding later disappointment.

The annual conversion from badminton, squash and table tennis to the parent game, lawn tennis, is now under way. The problems of readjustment vary in accordance to the past season's activities. The moans and groans of yesteryears come to mind and make me suggest that NOW, before the new season officially starts, is the time to seek instruction. Oh, to be sure, most of us think that all we have to do is pick up a tennis racquet and we are back in the game. Oh, to be equally sure, is the saddening (and frustrating) fact that the converse is more than likely to be the truth—that we are right out of the game. Next week—a few tips from Gordon Hartley, Ted Smythe and Jack Parker. Their subject: A wrong start in any sport can mean months wasted while the damage is being repaired.

OWN LEAGUE TOUGH, BUT

Dodgers Will Win, AL Pilots Agree

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel predicts that New York Yankees will win their sixth consecutive American League pennant. Manager Al Lopez forecasts a Cleveland flag and pilot Paul Richards declares his Chicago White Sox will beat out both the Yankees and Indians for the championship.

In contrast to the variance of opinion in the American League, practically all eight pilots have tabbed the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers as the team to beat for the National League championship.

"We are the champions and we should do it again," declared Stengel, winner of five straight pennants. "I don't see any reason why we shouldn't . . .

"The second team should be Cleveland, on their good pitching and that rookie Rudy Regalado who I see playing second base and Dave Philley who will help their outfield. Third has to be Chicago. They've changed their outfield and have added a couple of pitchers. Boston should be fourth, whether Williams plays or not. Washington is fifth. The other three I can't rate in order."

Lopez based his belief on a Cleveland pennant "because the Indians are stronger whereas the Yankees are weaker."

"Nobody can tell me that a team could lose three players of the calibre of Johnny Mize, Vic Raschi and Billy Martin in one season as the Yankees did and not suffer," Lopez said. "Mize won a lot of games for them.

"On the other hand we're much stronger in pitching than we were a year ago at this time with the addition of such fellows like Art Houtteman, Hal Newhouser, Don Mossi and Dick Tomanek."

"The way I see the order to finish is: Chicago, New York, Cleveland and Boston," predicted Richards.

Mat Winners Matched on Thursday Card

Buddy Knox and Dave Jons have been matched in the main event of next week's wrestling card at Victoria Ballroom.

Both grapplers won their respective bouts Thursday and Knox has requested a crack at Jons, the clever English matman who has built up a popular reputation in Victoria.

In one of the fastest matches ever seen in Victoria, Jons took the odd fall over rugged Frank Snider of Seattle.

Knox took a close match from Bud Ruttal of Vancouver in the semi-main event while Claire Robinson beat Victoria's Keith Hollet in the one-fall opener.

Earl Walls Favored To Reverse Decision

TORONTO (BUP)—Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls, who faces Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles Monday night at Maple Leaf Gardens, was favored today to win the rematch in spite of his initial loss.

Fight experts said Walls appeared sharper than ever before in training and may outweigh Harrison by seven pounds for the fight. Both battlers passed a medical examination with full marks Friday.

Harrison, who weighed 183 when he decisioned the Canadian champion in their first meeting here in January, may jump a pound or two for this one. He is a former middleweight and turned pro little more than three years ago.

Walls took 190½ pounds with him when he was floored twice for nine-counts in the first bout. This time he may weigh a pound or so more.

Both fighters said they were pleased with their sparring partners and believed the practice was doing them good. Walls' co-managers, Jimmy Jones and Shirley Jackson, imported Dan Florio from New York. Florio, a veteran of 42 years in the business, is well known as a handler and second of big-name fighters.

$2.2 MILLION ADVANCE IN BANK TOTAL

Greater Victoria bank clearings last week advanced $2,194,057 compared to the same week a year ago.

Victoria Clearing House total for the seven-day period ended Thursday was $8,179,936.

Total for the corresponding week of 1953 was $5,985,879.

A. H. Adams Dead; Rugby Star and Entertainer

Well-known entertainer and sportsman, Alfred Henry Adams, died Friday a few hours after being taken to hospital from his home at 2141 Beach Drive. He was 64.

"Alf" to hundreds of friends in Victoria, was born in Australia and had lived in Canada for 42 years. Like most Australians, he was a keen sportsman and for many years was a star on Victoria rugby and cricket teams.

Active in veterans' affairs on his return from the First World War, he was for a number of years secretary of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion.

He will best be remembered by Victorians, however, as head of a talented family of singers and entertainers who have given their services freely in Victoria for a number of worthy causes, particularly in the war years. Alf took the leading comedy role in a number of pantomimes here. During the war he organized the Red Triangle Concert Party which gave scores of shows for the troops at Vancouver Island camps.

He was a member of the Metropolitan Church and the Uplands Golf Club.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at McCall's; burial at Royal Oak.

Dr. J. W. Smith Heads Esquimalt Taxpayers' Group

Dr. J. W. Smith is new president of the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association. He was chosen from an executive committee elected at annual meeting of the group March 17.

Three other officers named by the 11-man executive are vice-president, Benjamin Caley; secretary, S. D. Armstrong; and treasurer, G. A. Smith.

Dr. Smith, an Oak Bay veterinarian, lives at 401 Lampson. He was one of the organizers of the Esquimalt ratepayers now in their third year of operation. Mrs. Smith ran for Oak Bay council two years ago and missed election by 16 votes.

MORE MEMBERS

Dr. Smith says his first concern will be to seek additional members for the group.

The new president takes over from acting-president, S. Armstrong, who took office in mid-term when Ralph T. Meakes resigned to run for 1953 council.

Election of senior officers from within the executive is an innovation passed by the membership at the last annual meeting. Previously, election had been by the membership.

New B.C. Gas Board Ready Within Week

VANCOUVER (CP)—The administrative component of British Columbia's new eight-man gas board will be in operation within a week, board chairman Donald Denham announced Friday.

Mr. Denham said representatives were being nominated from the City Council, B.C. Electric Company, Master Plumbers' Association, Sheet Metal Manufacturers' Association and other organizations.

In addition, he said, advertisements for a full-time supervising engineer and a gas inspector will appear in newspapers this week-end.

WEEK IN U.S. BUSINESS

Encouraging Factors Seen

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen looking for signs of an upturn could have spotted encouraging trends in several key areas of the economy this week. These include steel, automobiles, farm machinery, retailing and construction.

Two major steel producers in the Cleveland area said they are relighting banked furnaces because of a pickup in new orders. That's just the tonic the industry needs. It has been limping along (this week's scheduled output is 1,626,000 tons) at the depressed levels of 1949-50.

From Detroit came even better news: Sales of new cars during March climbed to 493,000, the highest in five months. Dealers said the used car bottleneck seems to have been cracked. Inventories of used cars in new car dealers' hands are at their lowest since November.

Retail store sales moved ahead this week; a "perceptible rise" was reported by Dun & Bradstreet. Federal excise tax cuts helped, as did the approach of Easter. But volume was still substantially under the high level of a year ago, when Easter was two weeks earlier.

CONSTRUCTION BETTER

Construction statistics made pleasant reading. The commerce department reported that first-quarter spending on new construction soared to a record $7,250,000.

However, David J. McDonald, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, said 189,000 members of the steel union are out of work. The head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen reported one of every eight railroad firemen unemployed, and predicted little improvement in the immediate future.

But the job situation had its brighter side. Farm equipment makers spoke hopefully of rising employment. International Harvester said it has recalled 6,700 workers, bringing the number on its payrolls to 56,700, the highest since August. Harvester gave the credit to a recent pickup in sales, spurred by introduction of new products.

A country-wide upturn in employment, possibly before Sept. 1, was forecast by Labor Secretary Mitchell. The recession has already hit bottom, Mitchell said, "and we are in for a good 1954."

Big Decline in Winter Wheat Seen in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)— A combination of drought, dust storms and production controls apparently has cut this year's United States winter wheat crop to about 200,000,000 bushels below that of a year ago.

The U.S. agriculture department estimated Friday that this year's winter wheat crop would total 677,981,000 bushels as compared with 877,511,000 bushels last year. This year's crop also appears to be well below the 10-year average of 832,977,000 bushels.

The department said that largely due to production curbs, growers this year planted about 18 per cent less acreage to winter wheat than last year. Production controls were invoked because of a record surplus from past bumper crops.

Further, the department reported sharp deterioration and heavy acreage losses in the drought-afflicted western and southern Great Plains.

Wall St. List Zooms With A-Energy Stocks

Active Market Hits Post-1929 Highs After Overcoming Much Profit-Taking

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks pushed ahead into new high ground during the week with renewed vigor after an interruption on Tuesday for profit-taking.

Shares with "atomic energy" interests, metal shares, steels and oils featured along with a host of special issues. Industrials closed the week at a new average high since October 22, 1929.

Rails and utilities had smaller, but still substantial gains.

Activity continued at a good pace, with the total for the week, 10,329,950 shares, just a shade below the previous week's 10,785,430 the heaviest since October, 1951.

On Tuesday a wave of profit-taking late in the day cut prices of favorites a point and two on volume so heavy it forced tickers to run late for a time. The selling that day cut industrials $2.78 on average, the rails $1.11.

Market analysts saw in the selling some reflection of trader uneasiness over tensions in the Far East, but they considered it largely technical. To many who bought stock back in September when the current advance got under way, they said, it seemed a good time to take long-term gains.

$2 BILLION ADVANCE

Subsequent vigorous recovery, which added nearly $2,000,000,000 to the market value of all listed stocks in the final three sessions, gave strong evidence of the market's basic trend, commentators said.

Recent excise tax cuts and the increased consumer demand they are expected to stimulate; the excellent construction outlook; brighter pictures for the steel and auto industries; the flattening out of unemployment all continued to foster market optimism.

The week's news drew renewed attention to issues with interests in the atomic energy field. Bendix Aviation and American Machine & Foundry responded to news they have been awarded peace-time atomic energy research contracts. AMF closed 3½ points higher. Bendix was up fractionally, with profit-taking paring earlier sharp gains.

Vanadium Corp. ran up 7⅞ points in active turnover. Climax-Molybdenum gained 4½. Both are major processors of uranium.

METALS, OILS GAIN

Union Carbide, which says it has a new and cheaper process for producing the "wonder metal" titanium, rose 3 points as the government announced it is doing all it can to increase production of better quality titanium at reduced prices.

Reynolds Metals gained 4¼ points, Aluminum Company of America 3¾, Magma Copper 1⅝.

Shamrock Oil, Standard Oil of Indiana, Standard Oil (N.J.) and Pan American Petroleum featured in the oils, with gains of a point to 5 points.

Steels were strong and active. Bethelehm gained 2¼ to a new high and U.S. Steel moved up 1¼, also to a new top. It was the week's second most active issue.

Cattle Still Big Factor In Alberta Trade Picture

CALGARY (CP)—The great ranches of the Rocky Mountain foothills and plains of Alberta have disappeared, and the long cattle drives to market are remembered now only by a few oldtimers.

The best animals still come from ranches, but the great bulk of cattle is raised not on ranches, but on farms. They are not "trailed" to market, but taken in by trucks, trailers and railroad cars.

Yet, cattle raising still is a big industry in Alberta. There are more cattle in the province now than ever before.

In a normal week, about 5,000 cattle are delivered to the stockyards in Calgary, heart of the ranching country. Cash returns to stock producers in 1953 totalled more than $35,500,000.

Each day trucks loaded with cattle stream into Calgary from farms and ranches within a 100-mile radius. At the start of the week, trucks some times are lined up for blocks leading to the 22-acre stockyards and its 700 pens.

BIG BUSINESS

In 1953, some 264,000 cattle and calves, 146,000 hogs, 41,000 sheep and 1,300 horses were delivered to the yards. Actual sales included 232,000 cattle and calves, 85,000 hogs and 11,000 sheep. The remainder were handled for feed and water on through-billing.

On the peak day last year, 418 trucks stopped at the yards, followed by 353 trucks the next day. In the two days 1,010 individual shippers delivered 5,300 cattle and calves, 1,000 hogs and 400 sheep. At the same time, there were 23 carloads of livestock on track.

The Calgary yards, next in size to those in Toronto and Winnipeg, are owned by Alberta Stockyards Co., a subsidiary of the CPR. The company was formed in 1903 by ranchers and bought by the railway in 1911.

A special feature of the Calgary yards is that cattle are sold by auction.

A FEATURED speaker at Pacific Northwest Trade Association conference in Portland Monday and Tuesday will be Ralph D. Baker of Vancouver, President of Standard Oil of B.C., Mr. Baker also is a PNWTA past president. Business leaders from B.C., Alberta, Washington, Oregon and Idaho are to address the conference. Dr. Raymond Moyer, Far East director of foreign operations administration, will speak Monday on "Helping Win the Struggle for Free Asia."

McConachie Sees Upsurge in Trade With Japanese

TOKYO (BUP)—G. W. Grant McConachie, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade and Canadian Pacific Airlines, predicted here that more Japanese goods will be bought by Canada.

The Japan-Canadian commerce agreement signed April 1, McConachie said, "guarantees non-discrimination in trade between our countries."

The trade treaty will enable Canada to reduce its tariffs on Japanese goods and "will place Japan on equal terms with the other major exporting nations of the world."

TWO-WEEK TOUR

The trade delegation, largest to visit Japan since the war, spent most of its first day here in Japan's exclusive Imperial Hotel.

Einar Gunderson, former B.C. finance minister, represents the B.C. government.

During their two-weeks here, the Canadians expect not only to talk business with Japanese industrialists and suppliers but actually sign contracts if negotiations can be completed.

G. C. Chandler, president of radio station CJOR, said, "We find Japan very interesting and are anxious to find ways to improve business between Japan and Canada."

The Canadians, who include leading bankers and businessmen, will fly to Osaka, Japan's major commercial centre, today to visit the international trade fair now in progress there.

TORONTO EXCHANGE REVIEW

Fast Trading Pace But Changes Small

By BOB JOHNSTONE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

This week's stock market activity was the fastest-paced of the year, although volumes were weak and final changes were small.

Toronto and Montreal markets were a little higher in narrow-range, slow trading.

Industrials and base metals dominated Toronto trading and golds were a little stronger and fairly active toward the week's close. Papers and utilities made the biggest industrials' gain while refining oils were mixed following last week's strength. Steels were lower.

Golds were stronger late in the week, following McIntyre's 75-cent lead, and several strong holding company moves.

Western oils, although moving within range in early trading, were only slightly changed.

The Friday-to-Friday comparison showed industrials up 2.15 at 334.06, golds up .66 at 73.89, base metals up 1.95 at 151.40 and western oils down .32 at 100.93.

TRADING DULL

Montreal trading was hesitant, and except for a few wide-range bursts, dull.

In the individual feature department, Aluminium was up $1.75, riding the crest of market confidence for the third week. Cockshutt was ahead 37½ cents in the final session after declaring a dividend, and Hamilton Cotton slipped $1.62½ in the general textile decline.

SENIOR METALS STRONG

Base metal strength was concentrated mostly in seniors with Noranda leading as it added $2.50. Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay and United Keno were also up. Mackeno and United Asbestos were active and pennies stronger. Manitouwadge-area issues were steady in mixed trading and uraniums edged ahead.

The week's range showed off .17 at 38.09, utilities up .4 at 101.9, industrials up 2.1 at 195.4, combined up 1.6 at 164.2, papers up 13.65 and golds up .72 at 54.60.

Reduced Rates On Lakes Asked By Wheat Board

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian wheat board, caught with huge wheat surpluses and searching for ways to trim selling costs, has run into stiff opposition from lake carriers in demands for lower inland shipping rates.

At Montreal, shipping company officials confirmed they have been asked to reduce rates but declined to say whether any cut would be accepted. They said negotiations are continuing.

"The rates are too high and must come down," said one federal authority, pointing out that the United States has cut rates and Canada must also do so in the race to capture world wheat markets. In the U.S. wheat exports are subsidized by the U.S. government. There is no subsidy on Canadian shipments.

$214,162 Profit for Preston East Dome

TORONTO (CP) — Preston East Dome Mines have announced a net profit of $214,162 for 1953, a decrease of $56,648 from the previous year. The mine was closed for nearly six months during the year because of a strike.

Streamlining Kitchen Easy Job for Handyman

Many a modern man takes an active interest in the kitchen and what goes on there, but none to the extent of the man who has modernized the family cooking centre all by himself.

Kitchen remodeling is definitely a man's job, and he can make it simple or complex, depending on his skill or lack of skill with tools.

One man we know bought a power table saw just to build cabinets for his kitchen. Starting from scratch, he built them from the floor up, and made the saw pay for itself.

New cabinets give a drab, old kitchen a substantial lift, but it isn't necessary to build them, thanks to manufacturers who prefabricate metal or wooden units. The cabinets are lightweight, easy to install and versatile. The combinations and arrangements you can make of them are numberless.

Extensive kitchen streamlining, complete to tiled walls and built-in ovens, cannot be done on a shoestring, but it's actually, amazing what changes can be wrought with a coat of paint, sofe indirect lighting and new modern base and wall cabinets

All makes of the latter are of nearly equal depth and height and are available in widths to fit almost any space. Some come knocked down and are assembled on the job. Wall cabinets are simply hung on brackets fastened to wall studding and are then secured to the wall. Base and sink cabinets are first leveled, then secured in place according to manufacturer's directions.

LEAVE PLUMBING ALONE

In modernizing an old-style kitchen, it is usually best to leave the plumbing where it is, if the pipes are in sound condition. A practical arrangement can be worked out in most cases, regardless of the sink's location.

It is generally agreed that the best arrangement of kitchen units calls for the sink to be placed between the stove and refrigerator, all close together to eliminate unnecessary steps. Of course this specification cannot always be met, but should be borne in mind while planning the new layout.

Lighting comes next in importance and is, of course, planned to do away with eyestrain. The homemaker who must work in her own shadow is handicapped. Never place a light source so that shadows are thrown over important work areas.

INDIRECT LIGHTING

Soft, general indirect lighting near ceiling level is excellent. Local fluorescent lighting beneath wall cabinets is ideal counter-top illumination. Fluorescent ceiling fixtures also furnish good overall lighting and are not unbecoming.

To eliminate a good part of the annoying clatter of pots, pans and dishes, ceilings of acoustical tile come highly recommended. The tile can be installed by a handy home owner, and can be painted with brush or roller coater if care is taken not to clog the tiny holes in some makes of tiles.

Another form of comfort insurance is adequate ventilation. And perhaps the most satisfactory way to ventilate the kitchen is to install an exhaust fan in the ceiling over the stove, or on an outside wall near the stove. The fan whisks away cooking odors and grease-laden air.

HOW TO Repair With A Rivet

Next time you're prepared to discard something that's broken around your house, think twice—maybe you can repair it very easily with a rivet or two.

Riveting requires no special tools. It takes no special techniques or training. All the rivets you'll use in small repairs won't cost more than a few pennies, and your neighborhood shoemaker or your hardware dealer will be able to furnish all the types you'll need.

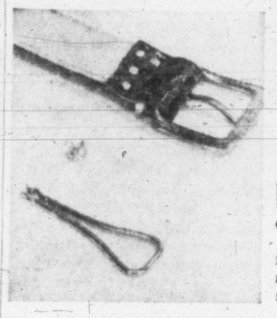
Tubular and split rivets will fasten sheet metal, thin wood, and thick plastics. They will take stout hold in leather and strong cloths. For extra strength in wood or leather, cloth or plastic, there are rivets with washers.

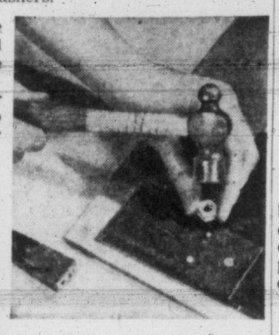
Rivet for metal should not be too loose in hole, and its end should project no more than one diameter.

Use hammer and a nut (or deep hole in rivet set below) to push sheets tight together against head.

Split rivets come boxed in assorted length, with special holding tool.

Snap rivet into the spring claws of the tool to hold it for starting. Aim it straight into the material, then drive it, and pull the tool free.





In second step, use vertical hammer blows to spread rivet in hole and begin its head (rivet at right).

Rounded head at left is finished with succession of slanting blows, or molded with cup on the rivet set.

With rivet started and driven perpendicular to the bucking block, its legs will spread and curl outward.

This flattens rivet and grips firmly in underside of material, as in belt. Wire-holding tool is shown at bottom.

WEEK'S WORK

Sow indoors—Zinnia, African marigold, dimorphotheca (South African daisy), annual aster, nemesia.

Tubers of gloxinia, achimenes, begonia, previously started into growth, should now be ready for pots.

Sow seed of hardy perennials in coldframe or a prepared seed bed outdoors.

If necessary, schizostylis (Kafir lily or crimson flag) may be lifted, divided and replanted.

Pampas grass (Cortederia argentea) may be divided.

Continue taking cuttings of pelargonium (florist's geranium) and fuchsia, where additional plants are needed.

Remove all but four or five most sturdy growths from perennial phlox.

Set out cauliflower and cabbage plants which have been well hardened.

Prune the hardy fuchsia, F. riccartoni, removing old wood back to where new shoots are evident.

Q.—Is it permissible to build a fire in an outdoor fireplace immediately after masonry work is completed?

A.—It's best to wait a couple of days, but if you can't wait, start a slow fire and keep it burning gently for several hours to thoroughly dry the masonry before building a heavy fire.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q.—Should black currants, recently planted, be allowed to bear fruit this year?

A.—To permit fruiting before the bushes become fully established is said to result in permanent weakening of the plants. The first season, new wood should be encouraged for fruiting the following year, and this is done by pruning all growths to within one inch of the ground, or within one inch of the stem on clean-stemmed plants. Pruning should be done before the end of February.

Q.—A large clump of montbretias failed to show any bloom last year. What should be done?

A.—For success with montbretia a rich soil is needed because their rapid increase soon depletes the available food supply. Clumps should be lifted, divided and replanted at least every third year. When buying new varieties, many gardeners are surprised to find they come as separate corms. Any gardener who will take the trouble to plant separate corms will soon have montbretias at their best.

Q.—Can you give a list of perennials for blooming in late summer and early fall?

A.—To name a few: phlox, anemone japonica, perennial asters (Michaelmas daisy), asclepias tuberosa, gaillardia, statice latifolia, eniphofia (red hot poker), physostegia, aconitum, chrysanthemums in variety, helianthus, boltonia, schizostylis (Kaffir lily), solidago canadensis and the dwarfer asterdago (solidaster), liatris, dahlias in varety, late planted gladioli.

Solve Problem By Duplexing Large Home

"Just a Little Home for the Old Folk" is more than a popular song title. It is the dream of most people drawing near the retirement age. And strangely enough retirement often brings with it housing problems even for those who already own a home of their own.

The children have grown up and now have homes of their own. The house is too large. Yet people are reluctant to leave the neighborhood they are used to, or to sell the house which holds so many happy associations for them.

Fortunately, many houses built in the 20s and 30s lend themselves very well to conversion. Three bedrooms was a fairly normal complement, thus allowing for an upper flat consisting of living room, bedroom, bathroom and another room to be converted into a kitchen. When possible, of course, this last mentioned should be the room above the main kitchen, so that the costs of connecting up plumbing and other fixtures can be kept to a minimum. If this room is fairly large, so much the better, because then space will allow for the installation of a combination sink with a deep tub for laundry.

It may be wise also, at the time the conversion is made, to bring the upper bathroom up-to-date in style and covenience. A modern bathroom will certainly be an advantageous selling point.

IOF Cadets Have Keen Band, No Instruments; Aid Sought

One of Victoria's youngest cadet corps is fighting a long, hard battle to form their own band but is finding the going tough.

The IOF Cadet Corps, RCA, comprising 59 senior cadets and 12 juniors, decided a cadet band was needed. With few funds but much enthusiasm, the corps engaged bandmaster Wally R. Panther for instruction.

Regular training was started and the boys have had plenty of theory crammed into their heads. Unfortunately, one item is lacking—instruments.

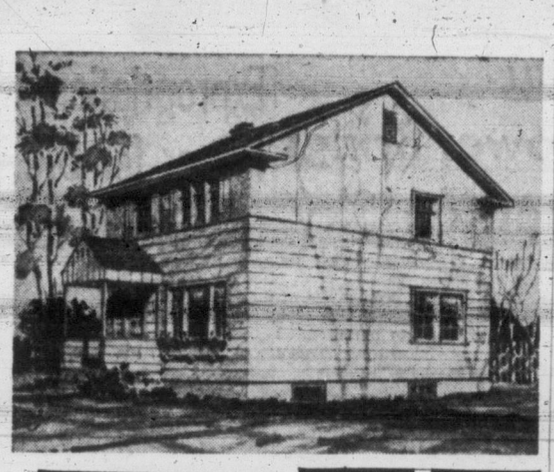
With 16 cadets registered in the band, a count of instruments on hand discloses only three, and one of these is being paid for at $2 a week by one of the instructors.

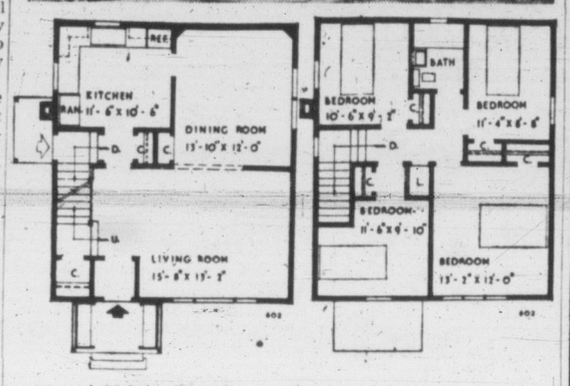
Cadet officials have searched frantically for horns, trombones, euphoniums and drums but with little success. They are now looking to the public for help.

"We'll beg, borrow, rent or buy anything short of steal to obtain instruments for the boys," said Commanding Officer Lt. "Cye" Burley.

They have few funds available for instruments but feel that if they can purchase a few brass, they will soon be able to raise enough money to buy more.

Persons wishing to help the corps may contact Lt. Burley at G 1179 or Lt. Fred Fatheringham at B 5219.





NHA Design-of-the-Month

The front porch has steadily disappeared from present-day house design but Rodolphe Lajoie, Montreal architect, has recaptured its charm in this pleasing two-story house which is finished in a combination of plywood and feather-edge wood siding. A modernization of the conventional corner-entrance plan, the design provides four bedrooms and convenient living for the large family. The integration of the hall space with the living room and the off-centre location of the arch to the dining room has given the downstairs an openness as opposed to the cubicle-room arrangement of older types. Suitable for a narrow frontage lot, the house has a width of 24 feet, six inches, and a depth of 28 feet. The total floor area is 1,372 square feet and the cubic measurement is 19,210 cubic feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 602, may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

WIND SPREADS ISLAND'S GOOD WILL

Chamber's Flower Shower Brings Spring to Bleak Edmonton Sky

By DON INGHAM
(Times Staff Reporter)

EDMONTON—Victoria daffodils—10,000 of them were strewn over several square miles of central Alberta Friday.

"I think some of them reached Wetaskiwin," said an official of Associated Air Services, that dropped the daffodils.

They served to announce to this city the arrival of the first eight of Victoria's Chamber of Commerce good will tour to Calgary and Edmonton.

The remainder of the party of 32 arrived one hour later by air from Calgary.

The "drop" was a great success.

"The flowers made a pretty sight drifting down out of the overcast," said Allan McTavish, president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and leader of the Edmonton welcoming committee at the civic airport.

B.C. WOOD USED

After lunch the Victoria party spent the afternoon on a tour of the Canadian Chemical Ltd. plant, where British Columbia wood products are woven into rayon fabrics.

Mayor William Hawrelak welcomed the Victorians at a civic reception and dinner in the evening.

The mayor sparked an exchange of compliments with the remarks that this city's petro-chemical industry is a "marriage of B.C. wood with Alberta oil to produce cellulose acetate."

He complimented the Victoria chamber for instigating the tour, that will end at 5.10 p.m. today when the party will board a TCA aircraft for the return trip to Patricia Bay.

"You are improving fellowship and good will," he said.

"That is the most important contribution anyone can make to our nation."

"Miss Daffodil," in the person of 19-year-old Jean Spedding of Victoria, spoke of the 10,000 daffodils dropped over the city's business section and said "I wish we could have brought some sunshine along with the daffodils."

Last speaker was George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, who stepped completely out of character to laud Edmonton before mentioning his own city.

Mr. Warren then reviewed Victoria's weather statistics, boasted of the city's graving dock and astrophysical telescope, and of its having "the largest per capita purchasing power of any city in Canada."

He deplored the fact that Canada's tourist exchange had showed a financial deficit for the last three years.

"Our national economy is affected by this picture," he said. "It must and can be corrected by inter-provinical travel. That's why we are here."

VICTORIA'S BIGGEST PHONE BOOK IN MAIL

Greater Victoria telephone subscribers soon will receive the largest telephone directory in the city's history.

Initial deliveries of the book, containing 22 extra classified pages and 16 more alphabetical index pages, began Friday.

Over 35,000 copies will be delivered before April 27.

Instead of using the old system of exchange names, the new book will list telephones with a straight five-digit number.

Beacon, Empire and Garden will be prefixed 2, 3 and 4, respectively, and Albion, Belmont and Colquitz will become 7, 8 and 9.

License Fees, Civic Stipends Boosted in New Legislation

Municipalities are empowered to levy a maximum $100 annual tax on car parking garages under an act given first reading the Legislature Friday.

The municipal act amendments also provide for the same tax on repair garages. Formerly, parking garages escaped municipal business tax, while repair garages paid a slightly lower amount.

Other sections of the act set a new salary category for elected municipal officials. Mayors and reeves of municipalities whose population is be- 10,000 and 20,000 will be allowed $3,000 a year, while aldermen and councillors can receive $750.

The act also provides for taxation of water companies, on the schedule now governing electric light and power, and telephone firms.

Another act brought into the House Friday will increase trade license tax revenues of village municipalities.

Maximum fees have been lifted from $200 to $500 a year. Second-hand car dealers would pay $200 instead of the present $60. Public utility licence maximum was raised from $200 annually to $400.

FIRST AID WINNERS

Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd., of Victoria, Friday was named winner of the sixth annual first aid contest of the B.C. pulp and paper industry.

In addition to the Golden Trophy, members of the winning team will receive binoculars as individual prizes.

Expropriation Power for B.C. Gas Distributors

Act Anticipates Peace River Line

A bill which gives gas utility companies the right to enter and expropriate any land in the province has been given first reading in the Legislature.

The act is designed to facilitate the operation and expansion of gas distribution firms on the completion of the proposed natural gas pipeline from the Peace River to the Lower Mainland.

It confers sweeping powers of entry and expropriation to gas firms.

Survey crews are empowered to enter any property, including Crown lands, without the owner's consent, and without license. Firms are granted the right to expropriate any land "reasonably" required.

MUST PAY

Compensation will be offered by the firm, but the owner will have the right to submit the compensation to arbitration. Payment must be made for the land, and any "injury suffered by reason of separating the land from that which it was formerly a part of."

If approved by the House, the act will come into force at a date set by the cabinet.

Preamble to the bill states that "it is expected that before long a pipeline for the transmission of natural gas to various centres of the province will be built.

"Legislative provision must be made to authorize and facilitate the distribution of gas in those centres by public utility companies."

LANGHAM'S 'WOMEN' HELD OVER ONE NIGHT

Continuing capacity audiences attending Victoria Theatre Guild presentation of "The Women" at Langham Court Theatre, have necessitated extension of the run for one performance only, Monday night. Tickets for the extra showing will be available at Eaton's Box Office and voucher holders should turn in their vouchers there at the earliest possible moment in order to assure admission.

Gardeners! LOXAR
Changes Clay to Easy-to-work Loam

LOXAR solves your problem of trying to work hard packing clay. LOXAR actually changes hard clay into crumbly, easy-to-work loam-like soil. It lets water and air filter down to plant roots, increasing water holding capacity . . . improves drainage . . . makes fertilizers more effective, too!
Just sprinkle LOXAR on well prepared soil, work in to desired depth and problem soils will remain workable. This change in soil structure lasts for years. LOXAR is recommended for flower and vegetable gardens, window boxes, greenhouses and market gardens — also for preparing seed beds for new lawns or for renovating bare patches in old lawns.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Vagrant thought while rising, bright-eyed from bed, ready to face another happy working day:

I think of all man's customs,
This one is the creepiest;
He goes to bed when wide awake,
And rises when he's sleepiest.

There is usually a great deal of talk going on about problem children, but the question of problem parents is rarely discussed.

This was remedied recently by Uncle Mat, who writes a monthly letter for the Matrix Contrast Corporation.

Uncle Mat says the problem of parents can be considered under four main types.

Type No. 1 is the Dictator. This is usually the father. He orders Junior to do something and when Junior doesn't, he is thoroughly womped. The Dictator never explains, reasons, or discusses; he just gives orders.

This undoubtedly leads to repressions, inhibitions, and other complications for Junior.

But unless Junior is as dumb as his old man, he eventually learns the rules.

Type No. 2 is the pushover, usually Mother. She lets Junior get away with murder and, unless he is as dumb as Mother, he quickly learns he's monarch of all he surveys.

Type No. 3 is the mediator type, usually both parents. They reason with Junior, explain things to him, tell him parables. Unless he is as dumb as both parents, he becomes thoroughly confused and winds up voting a split ticket at elections.

Type No. 4 is the spur-of-the-momenter, usually Father. When Junior shoots out a light bulb with a BB gun on Monday, Father congratulates him on his shooting eye, and suggests he try the one farther across the room.

However, when Junior shoots a light bulb on Tuesday, Father smacks him about the ears.

As a result of this, unless Junior is as dumb as his old man, he leaves home at an early age.

Unfortunately, Uncle Mat doesn't offer any solution, or suggest how parents should behave.

I guess parents will be okay if they act like people.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. HUNTER

"Break it up," called their father, coming out into the yard where his three sons were playing marbles, "dinner's nearly ready." But, seeing the looks of dismay on their faces, "two minutes more, but that's all." The boys continued their game with fierce concentration under his critical gaze. All too soon the time was up: "Come along now, no more." They knew he meant it this time. "Just as my luck was changing," grumbled one, "when you came out I had lost as many as Tim had won." "But Tim started with half what I had, and Tam started with five times as many as me"; piped Tom's shrill voice, "and now Tam has as many as I had when you first came out." The third boy now broke in: "And I've got three less than Tam had when we started." Any way, two of you are now equal," their Dad remarked, leading the way into the house. How many marbles did the boys have among them?

Friday's Answer — Humpty Dumpty was 12 years old.

Esquimalt Not Helped By New Ottawa Policy

Fairey Reports $42,000 Grant Not Boosted By Revised Municipal Tax Grant Formula

Recently-promised changes in the Municipal Grants Act likely will have little effect on Esquimalt, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said today.

In a long-distance telephone interview with Victoria MP, Dr. Frank Fairey, he learned details of changes proposed by Finance Minister Douglas Abbott won't affect a special formula upon which Esquimalt's present $42,000 annual grant is based.

An Ottawa report on March 20 said that planned changes would permit municipalities which have more than 2 per cent of the assessment roll federally owned to collect full taxes from the Dominion government.

Notice of the government's intention was placed on the Commons order paper but no details were given.

If federal properties in Esquimalt, which comprise a third of the municipality, were taxable, the income to the council treasury would be vastly increased.

ON LAND ONLY

But Reeve Wurtele says that Dr. Fairey told him the new deal on taxation applies to lands only, not to improvements. "We would continue under the special formula and wouldn't probably stand to gain," he added.

The special formula is a $42,000 annual grant in lieu of taxes on federal lands.

The reeve also stated that Dr. Fairey promised a "real answer" would be shortly forthcoming on the question of reconstruction of Admirals Road.

The municipality recently wired Ottawa calling for a meeting on the matter and threatened at a recent council to blockade Admirals, which is used 90 per cent by defense department traffic. No official reply has promised any action to date.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Two men who were stopped by Duncan RCMP for traffic violations were fined in Victoria RCMP court Friday.

Ian Gordon Scott, 587 Oliver, paid $35 and $3.50 costs for travelling at 65 to 70 miles per hour on a Duncan street.

Charles D. Algate, HMCS Naden, paid the same fine and costs for producing a driver's license which was not his own.

VICTORIA BAND DEFENDS B.C. TITLE TONIGHT

Thirty-five Victoria youngsters left the city by plane this afternoon, intent on proving they are still the best junior musicians in the whole of the province.

Members of the Victoria High-Central Junior High Schools band, the youngsters are out to retain the provincial championship they won at last year's B.C. Music Festival, edging out the world-famous and highly-rated Kitsilano Boys' Band.

Their crown goes on the line tonight in Vancouver.

The Kitsilano group is entered again, hoping to reverse last year's decision, and further competition will be provided by the Vancouver City Band.

The Victoria group will be under the direction of Rowland Grant, who led the 1953 champions. The students will spend Sunday in the mainland city, and return to Victoria by plane Sunday evening.

Public Meet Planned on Liquor Vote

Opposing Sides Silent on Plans

Opposing sides on the question of establishing new-type outlets here are holding back on any campaign for either a "yes" or "no" vote in the April 28 plebiscite.

The Victoria Hotelmen's Association—considered the leading "wet" group—has announced it has a campaign in mind, but spokesmen say nothing will be done immediately.

At the same time, the Greater Victoria Citizens' Association—regarded as the "dry" camp—has given no indication of what course it will follow.

APRIL 22 SET

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a public meeting for Thursday, April 22, at which two speakers from both sides will be invited to give their views on the liquor question.

The forum will be held at the Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion. Bill Davison, in charge of arrangements, said names of speakers will be announced next week.

The Junior Chamber itself will take no side on the matter.

Mice Poison Fails In Suicide Try

A young city restaurant owner pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted suicide when he appeared in city police court today and was remanded to Wednesday for sentence.

A detective testified that the man had been picked up while walking in the 300 block Cook Street, March 21, and had been taken to hospital.

He later admitted that he had taken a quantity of mouse poison.

Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered the remand in order to allow time for a probation report to be submitted.

Son of Former Premier Dies; Funeral Here

Mr. Tolmie died suddenly in his 49th year in Vancouver Friday.

Born in Victoria in the family residence on Lovat Avenue, he attended schools here including University School.

He is survived by his wife and daughter Ann, Blenkinsop Rd., and two sisters, Carol, in Bristol, England and Mrs. L. R. Andrews in Vancouver.

Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L Nunns will officiate and interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Rumors Persist On Ships' Sale

Losses on Two Princess Boats Said To Be Reason

Despite denials by CPR officials, persistent rumors are circulating Victoria's waterfront that the company has offered its two "luxury liners" for sale.

The rumors claim the company will entertain offers for CPSS Princess Marguerite and Princess Patricia.

One rumor goes so far as to say Marguerite has already been sold for delivery in September, after the summer tourist season, and that she will operate for her new owners on the Great Lakes.

Patricia and Marguerite are the newest and largest ships on the Victoria-Vancouver run. They operate as day boats during the summer season, but are laid up during the winter months.

Winter traffic does not justify keeping the ships in operation. When they were last kept running beyond Labor Day, the crew often outnumbered passengers.

By contrast, Princess of Nanaimo operates profitably all year round on the Nanaimo-Vancouver link. CPR has a new, larger ferry now building for this route, which will accommodate cars, trucks and railway box cars as well as passengers.

ALETHEA "REDGY" REDGMENT

First to submit her name was Alethea "Reggie" Redgment, 19, 3832 Dysart Road. She is a receptionist at radio station CJVI.

Second contestant, Iris Hamilton, 1107 Lockley, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hamilton.

The contest, staged each year by the Jaycees, is open to girls aged 17 to 21. Number of entrants is limited this year to 10.

Contrary to custom, contestants for the 1954 Queen title will not be sponsored by firms, but must enter under their own name.

Top prize this year will be $300 cash, with $100 awards going to the two "princesses." All entrants will be allowed to keep the wardrobes they model during the B.C. Products Fair, May 3 to 8 at the Memorial Arena.

Girls wishing to enter the race may do so by contacting the Junior Chamber of Commerce, E 4521.

ORTHODOX SIKH CHURCH

Temple Dedicated In Colorful Rites

A new Sikh temple at 2721 Graham Street was officially opened today with all the color and splendor of eastern tradition.

The temple is owned by a group of orthodox Sikh who believe that a true Sikh must wear beards and long hair in accordance with the traditions of the Khalsa Society, a religious-militant brotherhood founded many hundreds of years ago in India to combat Mohammedanism.

The house of worship, however, can be attended by other East Indians who do not completely adhere to the ancient customs, and by people of other faiths.

The opening of the temple was marked by a colorful procession and the carrying and opening of the Sikh Bible to the altar.

The Bible wrapped in gold cloth was carried into the church by a priest, Gani Nani Singh of Vancouver. Guards armed with swords stood over the sacred books, which according to the Sikhs, contains all known philosophical truths.

More than 60 Sikhs, their wives and children watched the colorful ceremony. The congregation all chanted as the Bible was carried to the altar by the Sikh priest. Then the book was opened and some of its passages read.

PENNANTS, CARPETS

The church was decorated with pennants. The floor was covered with a richly-designed carpet. People on entering the building washed their hands and took off their shoes in accordance with Sikh customs.

The temple, formerly known as the Church of the Nazarene, has not been completely renovated, according to Sikh officials. The congregation plan to do some extensive alterations within the next few months.

B.C. Cameramen Plan Clinics at Convention Here

The Professional Photographers' Association of British Columbia will hold its fourth annual convention and annual general meeting in Victoria May 3 and 4.

Photographers from all parts of the province are expected to attend, and 15 separate clinics and speakers have been planned.

A feature of the convention, to be held in Empress Hotel, will be a visit to the studio of David Anderson, nationally famous graphic artist.

Annual meeting and election of officers will be held May 3 in the Pacific Club.

Delegates will attend the B.C. products fair May 4.

Air Crash Victim Was on Way to Convention Here

T. M. "Pat" Reid, veteran Canadian flyer who was killed in the North Star crash Thursday, was on his way to Victoria to attend the semi-annual conference of Air Industries and Transport Association, which opens in Empress Hotel Monday.

Mr. Reid, who has been active in aviation for nearly 40 years, was aviation sales manager of Imperial Oil Limited, and was to have been host at a reception for delegates Monday evening.

Mrs. Reid, who also died in the crash, was to attend the convention here for the first time.

Air Industries and Transport Association is composed of leading aircraft and engine manufacturers, airline operators, and suppliers.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—If sports records list them, will you please tell me the greatest known speeds of a golf ball, a puck, a baseball (struck and pitched), a tennis ball, and a lacrosse ball?—A.L.B.

A.—Sports experts accept clocked speeds of 96 m.p.h. for a thrown baseball and 60 m.p.h. for a puck. The estimated highest speed of a tennis ball served by Pancho Gonzales is 120 m.p.h. Available records do not list clocked speeds for a gof ball, a struck baseball and a lacrosse ball.

Q.—Can you tell me the address in Ottawa where I may obtain the right to produce a special object?—A.B.

A.—It is not clear what you mean. Generally in Canada, a person is free to produce any article he chooses, always provided it is not in a class which is regulated or is restricted because of possible danger to the public or other reason, when presumably a license would be required. If you will communicate with the Department of Trade and Industry at the B.C. Legislative Buildings the deputy minister perhaps will be able to help you.

TODAY'S GARDEN HINT

By JACK BEASTALL

Early Sowing Trick for Old Pro'

Early seed sowing in the open garden is not always a successful venture with the amateur.

The professional and the old-time gardener have collected quite a bag of tricks, the majority being the result of careful observation and sound reasoning.

They know that success depends on the condition of the soil and its moisture content. Water being the most difficult soil component to heat by the comparatively weak rays of spring sunshine, the master gardener bends every effort to dry his soil before sowing any seed.

As the moisture content of the soil is reduced, so the soil temperature will increase, and a warm soil spells success with early sowings.

The first trick is to have the soil as dry as possible in early spring. This is accomplished by fall digging and leaving the soil hilled and rough over winter.

The second trick is to eliminate the remaining moisture and warm the soil. To do this the soil is cultivated every warm or windy day so that air can penetrate.

When both soil and weather are suitable for sowing, the third trick is used, that of heating the drills (or furrows) in which the seeds are sown.

For this the gardener-in-the-know chooses a warm, sunny day. The seed drills are opened in the late morning and left until mid-afternoon to absorb all possible warmth from the air. Seed is sown before late afternoon, and the drills closed.

Should the top two inches of soil be very dry at sowing time, the drills are watered in the morning so that the excess moisture will drain away and the remainder become warmed before seeding.

Easter Music

By LANCE H. WHITTAKER

At the beginning of Holy Week, lovers of music are looking forward to hearing fine city church vocal groups in both old and new choral settings of the crucifixion story.

They will not be disappointed.

Emmanuel Baptist choir, under the direction of Mrs. Alma Wittick, will begin the swell of Easter music Sunday afternoon at 4 when they present Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" in Emmanuel Church.

D. W. Phillips will be at the organ and Mrs. G. H. E. Green at the piano. Soloists are Alice Waddell, Robert and Allan Husband and Harold Parfitt.

* * *

Sir John Stainer's beloved "Crucifixion" will be presented at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 7.30 tomorrow evening.

This lovely passion cantata depicts the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane, the Procession to Calvary, and then the Crucifixion, leading up to the words of Jesus, "It is finished! Father, into Thy hands I commend My Spirit."

* * *

An interesting and satisfying program is promised by J. Ingram Smith at the organ of the Reformed Episcopal Church Sunday evening. With soloists Mrs. R. H. Nash and Mrs. F. M. Shandley, Mr. Smith will play the following selections, beginning at 8.30 p.m.:

SOLEMN MARCH, W. T. Best (1826-1897). A stately processional by a distinguished British musician. W. T. Best, one of the finest exponents of church and concert organ playing ever known, was city organist at Liverpool; his programs on the fine St. George's Hall organ ranked him as the greatest recitalist of his day. Musical authorities further acclaimed him as the "Liszt" and "Paganini" of the organ.

J. INGRAM SMITH
. . . At the Organ

THE PALMS, J. Faure (1830-1914). (Vocalist, Mrs. R. H. Nash). Jean Baptiste Faure was a celebrated French baritone and composer of songs, the "Palms" is the best known.

FUNERAL MARCH AND HYMN OF SERAPHS, A. Guilmant (1837-1911). A descriptive fantasia specially written for and performed by Guilmant at the inauguration of the organ at Notre Dame Cathedral, Paris, in 1868.

HARK A VOICE SAITH ALL IS MORTAL, J. S. Bach (1685-1750). (Chorale sung by Mrs. F. M. Shandley.) Bach's chorale preludes are really spiritual meditations on the texts of Lutheran Church hymns. In this exquisite example, a quiet lullaby suggests beautific peace and serenity.

SPRING SONG, A. Hollins (1865-1942). Many "spring songs" have been written but this gem (published in 1904) has been the universal favorite with organists and audiences alike. Dr. Hollins, although born blind, became a world-famous virtuoso. He played in Victoria in 1925 when on tour.

INTERMEZZO, Healey Willan (1880-). Dr. Healey Willan, recognized as Canada's leading composer, has written extensively for organ, choral and orchestra. Recently some of his works were featured on a program of all-Canadian composers given in New York. He adjudicated at the 1930 Victoria Musical Festival.

BELLS OF RIVERSIDE, Seth Bingham (1882-). A brilliant and exhilarating work, the main themes heard in the pealing of the great bells of Riverside Church, New York, are cleverly developed into a modern improvisation.

Miss Solomon in Final Recital

On Monday evening Victorians will have their final opportunity to hear Hazel Solomon, the fine young Canadian dramatic soprano who has been singing all this week at First Baptist.

In a full recital Monday evening, accompanied by Mrs. John Gough, Miss Solomon will sing the "Ritorna Vincitor," from Verdi's "Aida," the famous aria in which Aida is torn between love for her father, who is king of Ethiopia, and Radames, her lover, who is leader of the Egyptian army.

The remainder of the program, which follows, will be strongly sacred:

"Gathering Daffodils" (arr. Somervell); "O Sleep, Why Doest Thou Leave Me?" (Handel); "The Trout" (Schubert); "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" (Haydn).

"Hymn of Thanksgiving" (arr. Downing); "The Cross" (Ware); "O Thou Billowy Harvest Field" (Rachmaninoff); "Laus Deo" (Milford).

"O Had I Jubal's Lyre" (Handel); "Alleluia," a joyous Easter hymn (O'Connor-Morris); "Think on Me" (Lady John Scott); "To the Almighty" (Schubert).

"Goin' to Thank God" (arr. Dett); "The Angel Rolled the Stone Away" (arr. Johnson); "Four and Twenty Elders" (arr. Dorsey); "Ride on Jesus" (arr. Dett).

Composer to Accompany Choir

Oak Bay United Church choir, under the direction of Vera Barclay, will give the first performance in Victoria of James Saunders' "Man of Sorrows" on Good Friday at 8.30 p.m.

Mr. Saunders, now a resident of Victoria, came to the city from Winnipeg, where his sacred cantata has been performed a number of times. Mr. Saunders will be at the organ to accompany the choir.

The cantata depicts the story of the betrayal of Christ by Judas, the trial by Pilate, with the mob scenes, and finally, the Crucifixion.

Dr. Kenneth King will sing the part of Christ, Bob Williams the parts of Judas and Pilate, and Margaret Christison the narrator.

Brentwood College Chapel Scene of Wedding

Standard baskets of iris, plum blossoms and other spring blooms flanked the aisle of Brentwood College chapel for the wedding, this afternoon, of Catherine Heather McKay, the daughter of Captain and Mrs. D. H. McKay, Brenta Lodge, Brentwood, to Mr. Thomas Gordon Northcote, only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Northcote, Mission City, B.C.

Rev. Norman Lowe officiated and traditional wedding music was played by organist Mrs. Faith Webster.

Entering the chapel on the arm of her father, the bride was a lovely picture in her gown of off-white taffeta with leaf-patterned lace bodice. Additional leaves outlined by seed pearls were appliqued to the round neckline of the bodice, which extended to peaks below the waistline at front and back. The lace sleeves were long with lily points and the full taffeta skirt flared to a graceful floor length. Lace leaves trimmed with pearls were appliqued on her taffeta Juliet cap which held a mist of tulle, forming her three-quarter-length veil. She carried an all-white crescent bouquet of tulips, heather and freesias.

Mrs. William Raymer was matron of honor for her sister, wearing an ankle-length gown of iridescent pink taffeta. Bridesmaids Miss Marion Handcock, cousin of the bride, and Miss Eleanor McKay, sister of the bride, wore gowns of chartreuse and silver iridescent taffeta. Miss Diana McKay, as flower girl, had a dress of blue iridescent taffeta, with puff sleeves and matching sash. The senior attendants carried freesias and the flower girl carried forget-me-nots in dainty nosegay bouquets.

Mrs. William Westoby iced the attractive three-tier wedding cake which was topped with a sprig of heather and flanked by candles and spring flowers at the reception in Brenta Lodge. Bert Baxendale proposed the toast to the bride. Mother of the bride wore a suit of black silk velvet with corsage of yellow rosebuds. Mother of the groom wore a powder blue dress with Wedgwood iris and pink hyacinths en corsage.

For traveling on honeymoon by car to the Olympic Peninsula and the interior of British Columbia, the bride donned a suit of cherry red wool flecked with grey, grey accessories and corsage of spring flowers. The couple will make their home in Vancouver.

New, Instant Pudding Requires No Cooking!

By PENNY SAVER

Some wives have the worst luck. Their well-meaning and generous husbands invite friends home to dinner at the last minute and expect that a dinner planned for two will easily fill four stomachs.

What's a gal to do. Quite often she will open a few more tins of vegetables or a can of soup to fill out the main course, but then she has to dream up some jiffy dessert that's guaranteed not to flop, thus branding her as a poor cook.

Wise wives are going to take advantage of a new instant pudding, just recently available to Victoria women—your grocer should have a stock of it by now!

Can you imagine this? Here's a pudding powder that you mix with chilled milk, that's all! Let it set in the refrigerator for 10 minutes, and eat. No cooking required whatsoever!

This is a pudding that is always uniform in texture, with no lumps—ever! You'll never find that a rubbery surface film has formed and there is no separation of liquid and solid after setting.

When you make frozen desserts from this pudding (ice cream is one example) crystals won't form and therefore no second beating is necessary. Just mix as you would for a pudding, place in refrigerator trays and freeze.

Pudding comes in three flavors—chocolate, vanilla and butterscotch.

Recipes for pudding variations, cream pies, sauces and frostings are printed on the packages which sell at 29 cents for two.

Tapestry skirts are the rage . . . and you can make yours for very few dollars. Just take a look in a drapery department and you'll find some lovely heavy fabrics meant for curtains. Make them into full, attractive skirts for yourself. One store had a sale this week and was selling some perfect tapestries for just $2 a yard.

In Step With Style

Ready for a busy day, in a fresh, white blouse.

By KITTY DIXON

There's nothing smarter for a day in the office than a crisp, white blouse. Tailored or feminine in style, a blouse always makes a girl sparkle. She looks bright and fresh for a day's work.

Above left, a touch of embroidery on the collar and brilliant buttons add a gay note to the blouse of soft silklon fabric. It's perfection for wear beneath the jacket of your new spring suit. Any woman would look smart in this blouse, wearing it as a separate and teaming it with her favorite skirt.

Right: another blouse of silklon fabric, this time trim and tailored. It is fashioned with two panels of tucks on either side of the front opening. The neat, pointed collar and short, cuffed sleeves make this blouse ideal for the business girl of today.

Very soon we will be wearing the sleeveless blouses designed for warmer weather. Panels of tucks, seen in the blouse at right, will be a popular note in 1954's blouses of this type.

For evening? Blouses with low-cut backs are the newest idea. They may be high at front, but just watch them plunge into deep Vs or U's i nthe back view. You're a lucky girl if you own a pair of pretty shoulder blades.

Deep V fronts and daring scoops haven't been outlawed as unfashionable by top designers, though. So last year's glamour blouse will see a new season!

Descendents of Pioneer Families Wed in Traditional Ceremony Today

Two old Victoria families were united this afternoon, in the marriage at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, of Mary Austin Church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. V. Church, 1259 Oliver Street, and Michael Cleeve Mercer White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleeve G. White, 935 Terrace Avenue.

Grandparents of both principals came round the Horn in sailing ship days of the 1860's and established their homes in Victoria. The bride's grandfather, J. W. Church, opened Corrig College for boys, at the corner of Douglas and Niagara Streets, May 5, 1890, and Mrs. Church lived there until her death. Mr. White's grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Edward White.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was a picture of traditional beauty in her floor-length white crepe gown, the yoke and sleeves of fine chantilly lace; her fingertip net veil caught to her head with a band of orange blossom and adorned on either side with clusters of the same flowers. Her bouquet was of lemon yellow pillar roses.

Archdeacon A. E. de L Nunns performed the ceremony amid a fragrant setting of spring blossom, daffodils, Easter lilies and forsythia. Wedding music was played on the organ.

The bride was accompanied by a single attendant, Mrs. J. A. Carson, who, as matron of honor, was gowned in pale blue taffeta with net overskirt. The taffeta bodice had a boat neckline and she wore a hat of the same material and carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Assisting in receiving guests at a reception at Oak Bay Beach Hotel was Mrs. Church, wearing a frock of steel grey crepe with small feathered hat en tone, and Mrs. White in a princess model navy blue corded taffeta with pink hat and accessories.

Forsythia, plum blossom, and daffodils were massed about the lounge and pink hyacinths and white daffodils flanked the three-tier cake on the bride's table. Hubert C. Mangin proposed a toast to the bride.

For a mainland honeymoon, Mrs. White chose a blue and grey dressmaker suit with which she wore navy straw hat, grey topcoat and blue accessories. The young couple will make their home in Victoria.

Whitehead-Caselton Wedding Solemnized at St. John's

Calla lilies in tall standard baskets decorated St. John's Anglican Church, Friday evening, to give a lovely pre-Easter setting for the wedding of Gloria June, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Caselton, 3720 Blenkinsop Road, and Michael Martin Whitehead, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitehead, 860 Leslie Drive.

Canon George Biddle heard the vows of the couple in a double-ring ceremony. As the register was being signed, Allan Husband sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Chantilly lace and nylon net formed a wedding gown for the dark and petite bride. The floor-length, bouffant skirt was of pleated net with lace panel inserts and the jacket of lace was styled with fitted bodice and long lily-pointed sleeves. Orange blossoms held a full-length veil of nylon net and the bride wore the groom's gift, a rhinestone necklace. Red roses and white freesias formed her bouquet.

Mrs. Paul Bumgardner was matron of honor for her sister, wearing a pale green taffeta gown with matching floral headdress and bouquet in colonial style.

As bridesmaids, Miss Ann Smith and Miss Ann Norman wore gowns of net in pink and orchid respectively. They also had matching floral headdresses and carried colonial bouquets.

J. D. Whitehead was best man for his brotner. Ushers were Robert Callow and Ralph Shandley.

Reception was held at Oak Bay Beach Hotel, where toast to the bride was proposed by Walter Benson. For receiving guests, the bride's mother wore a dress of pale blue net and lace with pink accessories, and the groom's mother wore amethyst lace with matching accessories.

For traveling on honeymoon to Vancouver and Seattle, the bride chose a two-piece navy bengaline dress with grey and white topcoat, red accessories and corsage of red carnations. Upon return, Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead will live at 1133 Chapman Street.

Life Here Different to Hong Kong

By KITTY DIXON

Mrs. B. Hale and daughters, Hilary and Beryl, have traveled from Hong Kong, China, to live in Victoria.

Mr. Hale, general manager of Thomas Cook Travel Agency for India and the Far East, will join his family here in three years, when he retires. In the meantime, his wife and daughters, at present living at 3673 Blenkinsop Road, are looking for a home of their own, where they will settle and anticipate his arrival.

The Hales moved to China in 1935, and for a time lived in Peking. During the war they were taken to Weishien, in northern China, where they lived in a concentration camp for two years and ten months. Upon release, they went to Hong Kong, where they have been living until Mr. Hale's recent transfer to India.

While in Hong Kong, Mrs. Hale taught music at King George V School. It is a school equivalent to one of our high schools and is attended by "foreigners," that is, non-Chinese students. Fifteen nationalities are represented in this school of 483 students.

Mrs. Hale was organizer of the inter-school drama festival in Hong Kong, and a staunch supporter of the Musical Festival. But, much to her disappointment, she missed this year's festival by three weeks. Her choir had to enter without her leadership, and she is hoping that they were successful. Mrs. Hale also taught piano and theory, and was a member of Hong Kong's Canadian Club.

Seventeen-year-old Hilary has recently graduated from high school in China, and is planning to attend Victoria College and University of British Columbia, eventually to become a journalist. However, she must take correspondence courses in mathematics and science before she may attend a Canadian university, as the Canadian high school curriculum varies greatly from the Chinese. Hilary is keenly interested in sports . . . particularly grass hockey, and was delighted to learn that Canadian girls play the game, too. She hopes, some day, to return to Hong Kong.

Beryl, who is 14 years old, is attending St. Margaret's School.

FOOD EXPENSIVE

The Hales think that Hong Kong must be the most expensive place in the world to live. Food is five times the price of ours. Using a head of imported lettuce as an example, Mrs. Hale said "You pay $1.50 for one—in Canadian money!"

Some things, however, are much cheaper in China. Cigarettes cost less than half the price Canadians pay. Nylon stockings are also very cheap.

Home life in Canada is vastly different from home life in China, where Oriental servants do all the household work.

"I'm having a terrible time with my washing machine," says Mrs. Hale, "and our basement furnace is absolutely an ogre! But I'm learning, and I hope to be quite an accomplished Canadian housewife by the time my husband arrives."

Alison Snape Wears Heirloom Veil For Marriage to Sub-Lieut. Leamy

A wedding veil of century old Limerick lace, worn by the bride's great-grandmother, enhanced the radiant charm of Alison Mary Agnes Snape, this afternoon's bride. A sparkling tiara of pearls and diamente held the family heirloom in place. The bridal gown, in exclusive period style, was fashioned of heavy ivory brocade, with deep, portrait neckline, trimmed at the "V" with a lover's knot of tiny seed pearls, and filled in with a yoke of champagne-toned net. The full, crinolined skirt swept into a graceful train, accentuated by two large, hand-fashioned bows. Sleeves were long and lily pointed.

Canon George Biddle performed the service in St. John's Church for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Snape, 1140 Tattersal Drive, and Sub-Lieut. (S) James David Andrew Leamy, HMCS Naden, son of Mrs. G. Leamy, Montreal, Que., and the late Mr. A. Leamy.

Floral decorations were of daffodils and plum blossoms. During the signing of the register, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" and "O Promise Me" were played on the organ.

The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Maid of honor, Miss Finola Duke, wore a taffeta and net gown of pale lemon yellow. The large net collar was tucked to match the tucked edging of the net overskirt.

Bridesmaids, Miss Dalla Quainton and Miss Margaret McGill, were gowned identically in deep mauve. All attendants wore white accessories and hair bandeaux of white flowers. They carried bouquets of yellow and white stocks and snapdragons.

Cameron Leamy was best man. Ushers were Sub-Lieut. John P. Nash, Sub-Lieut. Ross Murray, Sub-Lieut. John Toogood and Sub-Lieut. Charles Ilsley.

Reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. de S. Duke, "Molton Coombe," 1003 Newport Avenue, where a three-tier wedding cake, decorated with yellow rosebuds, was cut by the young couple. L. de S. Duke proposed the toast to the bride.

Mothers of the bridal couple assisted them in receiving guests, Mrs. Snape wearing a gown of summer navy crepe, lace and pink taffeta. Mrs. Leamy wore a gown of imported rose beige crepe and lace.

Honeymoon will be spent motoring in the Okanagan, the bride traveling in a brown suit with small fur scarf, small, close-fitting hat and accessories of a lighter brown. Upon return, they will live at 1140 Tattersal Drive.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By BILL PARKER

Week-end radio usually offers plenty of variety and this week is no exception.

Don't forget the CBC's massive Easter Seal Show at noon Sunday over CBU and CJVI. Stage 54 will spotlight "The Wise Rabbi" over CBU at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The first in the series of NBC "Summer Symphonies" will go on the air at 8 p.m. Sunday over CBU. In the past, these programs have always provided the best in musical entertainment, and there is no indication that this year will be any different.

On the local front, CJVI appears to have some interesting special programs scheduled for broadcast.

At 8.45 tonight, the Victoria station will feature a band concert by the Bremerton High School Band, especially recorded by 'VI for local listeners.

The CIL "Singing Stars of Tomorrow" program will go into its final run Sunday night at 6 over 'VI. The show will last one hour instead of the usual half. I hear Victoria's Stanley Martin will not be competing but may get an "honorable mention."

Let's all tune in Sunday night and find out.

(These program listings are as supplied by the stations themselves and The Times is not responsible for last minute changes or other alterations.)

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY . . .

Monday's child is one of those really charming individuals who will have everyone falling over himself to try to smooth out life's wrinkles and to bring all sorts of desired favors right into your progeny's lap. This is all right, but your offspring may accept grandly and do little on his own. It's best to teach early that only what one earns himself, or herself, is truly appreciated and enjoyed. Fine chart for work connected with the desire of the general public for pleasure, entertainment, adornment.

Conquer Cancer Fund Saves Lives By Widening Public's Knowledge

One of the greatest weapons in the fight against Canada's public health enemy No. 2—Cancer—is early diagnosis, Norman Yarrow, co-chairman of the Victoria "Conquer Cancer Campaign," said today.

No authorities, said Mr. Yarrow, have yet come forward to proclaim a cure for cancer, but almost daily some announcement is made of an advance in the fight against the dread disease.

"We cannot overemphasize this vitally important factor—early diagnosis," he stated.

Early diagnosis and treatment have in many cases been responsible for saving the lives of those afflicted by cancer. But a large number of cases, said Mr. Yarrow, because diagnosed too late, have had fatal results.

The B.C. Cancer Society and the B.C. Cancer Foundation, throughout the year, provide interesting and important public educational programs in an effort to put before persons all available information on cancer, its symptoms and to stress through its educational program the importance of early diagnosis.

This year, the B.C. Cancer Society and the B.C. Cancer Foundation is appealing for $200,000 in British Columbia for research, provision of new and necessary equipment for cancer treatment and for educational purposes.

The money, said Mr. Yarrow, is urgently needed to broaden the base of attack against cancer through educational programs, research and research facilities, and in the extension of welfare assistance as well as for the provision of better diagnosis and treatment facilities.

"The fight against cancer is continuous," he stated, "and to press it, funds are required for a battle waged incessantly by doctors, scientists and many others."

Donations may be made to the Conquer Cancer Headquarters, Room 2, 816 Wharf Street.

GALLUP POLL OF CANADA

Post Office Satisfies Two-Thirds of Public

By CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

Although almost half of the Canadian public think that the recent postal increases are unjustified, the Canadian Post Office gets an orchid for doing a "good" job from practically two-thirds of the Canadian public.

In reporting this public satisfaction with the work of the Post Office, the Gallup Poll notes that approval for a "good" job is expressed by as high as three-quarters of the Prairie citizens, and by 70 per cent of the Maritimers. Quebec and B.C. lie in between these two figures. But in the province of Ontario there is a widespread dissatisfaction with the Post Office, compared to other regions. Here only 56 per cent of the people say "good." Ontario citizens are far more likely to describe its work as "fair" than other regions.

Questions asked of a scientific sample of the public by interviewers for the Canadian Institute of Public Opinon was this:

"Speaking generally, do you think the Canadian Post Office is doing a good job, a fair job, or a poor job?"

The way in which Ontario's point of view pulls down the national average is shown in the following table:

	Good	Fair	Poor	Qualified and No Opinion
National	66%	25%	5%	4%
Maritimes	70	22	2	6
Quebec	71	22	6	1
Ontario	56	32	7	5
Prairies	75	17	3	5
B.C.	73	19	6	2

Dissatisfaction with the work of the Post Office is highest in the larger centres, where 65 per cent think it is doing a good job as compared to 70 per cent in the rural areas.

Progressive Conservatives are the least satisfied with Post Office performance, and reflect Ontario's attitude, as only 58 per cent say "good" compared to 70 per cent among Liberals. The CCF has 69 per cent among its adherents who say "good."

Those Canadians who said "poor" were asked by the Institute to explain why they felt this way. Reasons heard most often included:

Inefficient service.
Deliveries are poor, slow, late.
Air mail service inadequate.
Costs too much.
Personal indaequacies, short staffs and inefficient employees.

Criticisms were also reported of the one-a-day delivery, and carelessness in handling parcels.

But across the country the Post Office gets approval from two in three who are more than satisfied with its services. "Good," they say—and tens of thousands of "posties" can probably take a bow.

But while the public is in this happy frame of mind about its service, half the people, as reported last week, think that postal increases are unjustified.

'Labor's Throat Cut' by New Law MLA Charges as Bill Advances

Opposition members were openly surprised Friday when no government members rose to support withdrawal of the contentious Labor Relations Act.

A division was called on second reading and vote was a solid Socred 21-vote "yea" and an Opposition of 15 voting "nay."

The CCF had counted heavily on labor-minded members of the government swinging over to Opposition ranks when the new bill came up for second reading. Their hopes were unfulfilled.

NO WARNING

Speakers during the afternoon debate were all CCF and led off with John Squire of Alberni. He said that Labor Minister Lyle Wicks had promised in January to have the Industrial Concliiation and Arbitration Act amended, but had said nothing of a completely new act.

"Labor wants to know what happened," he said, calling the new act "a direct slur against labor."

Despite government claims that rulings under the act speeded up industry-worker negotiations, Mr. Squire said this was not the case. The contrary was true.

"Withdraw the bill, before the government and the people get into serious trouble," he urged.

Robert Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle), said that "if the bill passes, it will be a day of affliction and sorrow for the people of this province."

POWER CENTRALIZED

Main labor objection to the bill is that it gives the labor minister too much control.

Mr. Strachan termed the bill "another low point in the chart of human progress," and said the bill was designed to bind the hands of labor, and deliver labor "helpless into the hands of unpredictable employers."

If the bill passed, labor, he said, "gets its throat cut."

Mr. Strachan said there was absolutely no equality in industry-employee bargaining and all labor had was the joker in the deck. The act, he said, "takes the joker away and gives the employer the complete deck."

Only labor alternative to the heavy holdings of industry and business was the strike vote, and the Cowichan-Newcastle MLA said the proposed act "makes it very difficult to go on strike."

'WITCH'S BREW'

He called the act also "atrocious legislation . . . a witch's brew . . . made up of the worst features of the Alberta labor laws and the worst proposals of the manufacturers of this province."

The act, he said, could only succeed in driving the trade unions into the courts and could succeed in breaking them.

"If that is what this government wants . . . then go ahead."

The act would result only in "suppression, turmoil and chaos."

Frank Howard (Skeena) said it was time for the government to take another of its "second looks," this time before passing legislation.

Costs to unions protecting themselves had cost close to $1,000,000 in B.C. since 1947 date the ICA Act was passed and the new act had features worse than the ICA, he said. Unions just did not have enough money to battle things out in courts where "delay" took place, he said.

LPP HAPPY

There was one group solidly behind the bill—the Labor Progressive Party, he said.

Why? "Because they thrive on chaos. They are in complete support."

The bill would force workers to become "scabs" and break the law as there was "no other alternative."

"Sit down with employee groups," he urged the government, "and discuss the act with them."

Anthony Gargrave (Mackenzie) said the new act provided that unions would be penalized for carrying out trade union functions under the "red tape boundaries" set up.

"You can't stop a strike by endeavoring to suppress it."

Critical of the easier access to the courts granted under the act, Mr. Gargrave said the quickest way to settle disputes was "keep the lawyers out of it."

The second reading endorsed the new act in principle.

Gregory Hits Municipality Rent Control

Liberal George Gregory told the Legislature Friday the government should "courageously get out" of rent control instead of passing on responsibility to municipalities.

Gregory spoke in favor of a new bill which provides for removal of provincial rent control authority in March, 1955, and for transfer of control to municipalities who desire it.

"The fact that some people find housing difficult to obtain is not the responsibility of the landlord," he said. "That is up to the state."

ORDERLY SWITCH

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, under whose department rent control administration falls, said the government intends "an orderly transition from control to decontrol."

He said the government will also establish machinery "shortly" to review and give relief in certain inequitable circumstances which have arisen under established rental regulations."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the necessity for continuation of controls is local in nature, and that municipal officials can use the period between now and the end of provincial controls to decide whether they are warranted in their particular area.

Not Enough Cadavers For Medical School

The University of British Columbia medical school is threatened with student reductions because of a shortage of human bodies for research and study, Health Minister Eric Martin told the Legislature Friday.

Mr. Martin said the supply of cadavers is so low that "the number of students might have to be cut in a few years." His statement came as the House gave second reading to a bill which will turn "publicly exposed bodies" or those of government wards, over to the medical school if they are unclaimed.

Dr. Larry Giovando (Conservative, Nanaimo-Islands) said "this is a very important act. It is for a very good cause."

He said it would halt the practise of "grave-robbing" which he said he had encountered some years ago in the East.

E. E. Winch, the veteran parliamentarian from Burnaby, said "this is only another form of body-snatching." He said that the bodies to be used are those of "friendless and poverty-stricken."

"If society has the right to claim their bodies," he said, "it has the right to claim the body of every one of us." Winch said he approved the bill, in principle, but that he failed to see why it specified "wards of the government."

Winch also said the practise of using human bodies for medical research should halt vivisection. He said he hoped the day would soon come when laws would be enacted to prevent vivisection in all Canada.

Tony Gargrave (CCF-McKenzie) proposed an amendment to the bill which would enable persons not wishing to be "cut up" to state their desire in writing, and escape provisions of the act.

Health Minister Martin has indicated the government will accept the amendment.

"Some people have a horror of having their bodies used for this purpose," said Mr. Gargrave.

Two RCAF Comets Grounded for Past Two Months

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF's two Comet aircraft are undergoing a number of modifications and have not been in the air for about two months, an air force spokesman said Friday.

It is expected it will be "several weeks" before they are ready to fly, he added.

Meanwhile, there has been no general order as such, grounding the aircraft, as was imposed by Britain and France Friday following the crash of a British Overseas Airways Corporation Comet in the Mediterranean.

Morning Programs Are Carried Daily.

WEEK'S TV ROUND-UP

By BILL PARKER

Sunday night televiewers have a treat in store if they dial channel 2 at 10.30.

CBUT's weekly feature show "Scope" will present the NBC-TV Opera House performance of Vittorio Giannini's delightful opera, "The Taming of the Shrew,"

Based on the Shakespeare play of the same name, excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet" and the Shakespeare sonnets, the production will be directed by Peter Herman Adler.

Featured in the show will be John Raitt, Susan Yagan and Sonia Stollin.

The program received rave notices south of the border so should be well worth viewing.

Another Sunday night show over CBUT that telefans will do well to watch is the National Film Board production, "Window on Canada." Broadcast time is 9.30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Good Friday will provide the high point in the week's entertainment on CBC television with two Holy Week programs scheduled for broadcast that evening.

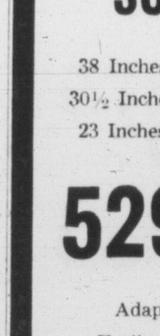
At 7.30 p.m., CBUT will carry a 90-minute performance of David Greene's "The Vigil." Originally written by the Hungarian playwright Ladislas Fodor, it is the imaginary story of a gardener accused of stealing the body of Christ from the Tomb and burying it in an unmarked grave in order to give the impression that the Resurrection had taken place.

The production will star well-known Canadian radio and TV personalities Pat Macnee, Joseph Furst, Lorne Greene, Katherine Blake, Barry Morse, Alan King, Betty Leighton and Frank Peddie.

★ ★ ★

One of the world's most widely screened films will be shown over CBUT at 10 p.m. on Good Friday.

"King of Kings," an old silent film from 25 years back, has been seen by over 800 million people. Produced by one of Hollywood's top-light movie men, Cecille B. de Mille, the picture was one of the first films ever to depict the face of Christ. The show stars H. B. Warner (now one of America's wealthiest movie moguls) as Christ, and Joseph Schilkret as Judas Iscariot.



DE MILLE

De Mille spent 18 months doing research for the movie and wrote the script with the aid of a rabbi, a minister and a priest. For the televised version, a musical background has been added.

★ ★ ★

KING-TV's popular children's program "Wunda Wunda" walked off with top honors in the youngsters out-of-school listening class of the 1954 Institute for Education by Radio and Television exhibition at Ohio State University.

An "honorable mention" also went to KING's "Telecourse on Northwest Books."

★ ★ ★

KTNT-TV will feature two special Holy Week programs.

The Tacoma Council of Churches will appear in a special Easter week program from the First Baptist Church in Tacoma at 5.30 p.m. Monday, and at 3 p.m. next Saturday, KTNT will feature the religious film "I Beheld His Glory."

Volunteer 'Hot Pilots' Wanted to Test Comets

British Desperate To Find Weakness

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today decided to call for volunteer "hot pilots" to test Comet jetliners to try to discover weaknesses, Sir Miles Thomas, British Overseas Corporation chairman, said today.

In the last 10 months three unexplained Comet crashes have killed all aboard the planes—99 persons. The latest disaster was Thursday off the Italian island of Stromboli, in which 21 persons died.

Thomas said the test planes may be equipped with special escape hatches and crew ejector seats, and flying instruments will be adapted so they can be jettisoned in case of unanticipated disster.

The pilots will climb rapidly to high altitudes to try to duplicate the conditions existing just before the three Comets mysteriously plunged in fatal crashes.

The tests probably will be undertaken by test pilots of the royal aircraft establishment, Thomas said, adding:

"We want the Comets back in the air as soon as possible, but they must be right. The question of sabotage clearly cannot be ruled out entirely, but no engineer would shelter behind that."

A BOAC official had earlier denied reports that the corporation had sent any security men to Rome to investigate possible sabotage.

A de Havilland spokesman said today for the manufacturers that no Comet orders have been cancelled. Orders for the newer and more powerful Comet series include one from the first United States buyer, Pan-American World Airways, which has booked three Comet IIIs with the option of a further seven.

The spokesman added that the company is still working hard on the Comet II and Comet III and it is not correct to say that they are different planes from the Comet I, the type that crashed. They were longer in the fuselage, but in structure and design they were the same.

The de Havilland company said of Thursday's crash: "We are mystified.

"We feel that if it is not a matter of strength and not a matter of ordinary safety provisions we have to dig very deep to find the cause.

"When you have been building aircraft for 30 years and have provided against every possible cause of trouble it is rather difficult to know what to do."

Bodies Give No Evidence of Blast

NAPLES (CP) — A British medical officer said today superficial examination of victims' bodies gave no evidence that the jet airliner G-Alyy exploded in mid-air.

The plane crashed into the Mediterranean Thursday night, killing all 21 persons aboard, to add another tragic chapter to the mystery of the Comets, four of which have met with fatal accidents in 13 months.

Cmdr. R. Russell, medical officer of the Royal Navy aircraft carrier Eagle, said he had examined bodies of five victims, only ones recovered of the 21 persons killed in the crash.

"Most of the injuries appeared to have resulted from a terrific impact," he said. "All five suffered fractures and severe bruises to their legs.

"I found no signs of an explosion in mid-air. They died hitting something — either the inside of the aircraft or the water."

Earlier reports had indicated that the Comet had exploded in the air, like another ill-fated Comet which plunged into the Mediterranean off Elba last Jan. 10 with loss of 35 lives.

Admiral Earl Mountbatten, British Mediterranean fleet and Allied Mediterranean commander, called off the British search this afternoon. He said he was certain that the five recovered bodies and the fragments of wreckage were all searchers could find.

The rest, he said, probably was sunk in the deep sea, beyond reach of divers.

Papers Lament Leadership Blow

In London, newspapers lamented the serious blow to British leadership in the jetliner field but said in effect: "We will press on."

The Financial Times said "there is no doubt what is at stake: It is whether Britain shall replace America as the main manufacturer of commercial airliners."

The Times described the disaster "as the tragedy of an enterprise," and added: "There should be no delay in letting the public know what is discovered."

The News Chronicle said "it is impossible to believe that the Comet will never fly again."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express urged that the Comet's model I be modified for use as a freight plane. "In Canada, Comets have been taken over by the air force," the editorial said. "Why not let the RAF take over in Britain too and fly them?"

"Why," asked The Daily Sketch, "has this wonder aircraft become a flying coffin?"

But Britain will "press on regardless," it added.

The Daily Mail said "the Comets had an extraordinarily high safety record in their first year, so why should they start cracking up now?" It added: "The British people are confident that their engineers, designers and inventors can still beat all comers."

Greenwood Holds Lead

Gordon Greenwood of Colwood Golf Club was leading clubmate George Goodwin, 1 up, at the end of nine holes in the 24th annual Empress Golf Tournament men's final at Colwood Golf Club today.

In the women's section, Mrs. G. Greene of Seattle, defending champion and holder of the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy, was leading Mrs. H. G. Mearns of Victoria, 1 up, at the end of nine holes.

Presentation of prizes will be held this afternoon following completion of the championship matches.

Hard-Fighting French Inflict Heavy Red Loss

Rebel Trenches Counter-Attacked

HANOI, Indo-China (CP) The French high command announced tonight that troops rallying from the heart of Dien Bien Phu inflicted "heavy losses" on the Communist-led Viet Minh in smashing a network of rebel trenches on the eastern side of the dustbowl.

French infantry, spearheaded by tanks and after three hours of artillery bombardment, counter-attacked the Vietminh and at the point of bayonets drove them from a hill position in the east.

The Vietminh then were driven out of a series of winding trenches in bloody hand-to-hand fighting.

The French high command announced that the losses of the attacking French troops were "appreciable."

BLAST AIR STRIP

The French high command announced earlier that Vietminh commandos had blown up the metal surfacing of the northern end of the Dien Bien Phu airstrip.

The French counter-attack smashed the closest Vietminh entrenchments to the heart of the fortress. These were estimated at five-eighths of a mile away.

French fighters and bombers followed up the infantry assaults, heavily plastering the Vietminh troops and forcing them to retreat eastward.

A command spokesman did not define the terms "heavy losses" but it was regarded likely that the Vietminh's casualties had run into hundreds of killed and wounded.

IN SECRET MEETINGS

Canada, Big Four May Talk Arms Cut

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With recent United States hydrogen bomb tests injecting a "new note of urgency," the West is solidly behind a proposal for private talks among the Big Four and Canada on world disarmament. Russia has asked for time to study the plan.

The proposal to take such arms discussions out of the public eye, where they have proved only a deadlock of propaganda exchanges, was made Friday by Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon before the United Nations disarmament commission.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky did not say "nyet" to the proposal. In fact, most delegates expect that the Russians finally will agree to the secret talks. But some observers wonder whether Vishinsky might not be preparing to insist on Red China's participation.

Vishinsky said he would have to reserve until later his comment on the British proposal, which got prompt backing by the U.S., France and Canada. He said he wants to see the plan in writing and go over it carefully.

One member of the commission said he understands Vishinsky sought the delay because he had not received instructions from Moscow in time for Friday's session.

Dixon promised to submit his proposal in writing Monday, and the commission recessed until next Wednesday. Canada's delegate, D. M. Johnson, welcomed the proposal.

In an obvious reference to the latest U.S. H-bomb tests and the chain-reaction political furor they have set off around the world, Sir Pierson said in introducing the plan that "there is a new note of urgency in the world today. We must redouble our efforts."

The plan calls for creation of a five-power subcommittee consisting of the U.S., Britain, France, Russia and Canada to try to find a solution to the disarmament and atomic control problem which public debate has failed to solve in the last eight years.

Saanich Search Ends as Body Found in Well

The body of a 61-year-old Saanich man, object of a police search since Friday morning, was found in a well near his home at the remote western end of Ivor Road just before noon today.

Henry Dickinson, 61, 347 Ivor, was discovered by a search party which expanded early today to include police, Vancouver Island Rangers and two tracking dogs. Police were called after Dickinson failed to return home after leaving the house at 10 a.m. Friday.

The searchers had gathered at Marigold Post Office at 9.45 a.m., under direction of Saanich Police Sgt. John Hamilton and Gordon Sword of the Rangers. The men spread out into the bush area which extends from the house where Dickinson lived with his wife toward Prospect Lake.

The body had not yet been brought out of that area at press time and details were scarce.

Dickinson and his wife had come here to retire three or four years ago. He is reported to have been a policeman on the prairies. He was working at present as a night watchman at the Empress Hotel.

Victorians Promised Sunshine For Palm Sunday Services

The promise of sunny weather and the emergence of spring flowers will bring thousands of Victorians out to church tomorrow as Palm Sunday services mark the beginning of the most solemn period in the Christian calendar—Holy Week.

Special observances and sacred music have been planned at all city churches for the day that commemorates the entry of Christ into Jerusalem, the first step of the tragic story of the cross.

The religious significance of Holy Week will be marked each day, through Maunday Thursday and Good Friday, to the jubilant Christian festival of Easter Sunday.

At Christ Church Cathedral Very Rev. Northcote Burke, dean of Christ Church, Vancouver, will conduct the noonday services Monday through Thursday, from 12.15 to 12.40. On Friday special devotions will be held from noon to 3 p.m.

Masses at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral will be at 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. The late mass, a solemn high mass, will feature singing of the Passion.

Parishioners will receive a piece of palm leaf on entering church, which will be blessed later by the officiating priest.

Emmanuel Baptist will feature Easter music . . . the sacred cantata "Olivet to Calvary" at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be heard at 7.30 p.m.

On Good Friday "Man of Sorrows" will be heard at Oak Bay United, and Fletcher's "Way of the Cross" will be heard at St. Mary's on Good Friday.

(See Church Page for full church calendar.)

COLORFUL CROWD GREETS QUEEN, DUKE AT CEYLON

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UP) — Saffron-robed priests and skirted drummers greeted Queen Elizabeth today when she stepped ashore on her newest and most colorful Dominion.

Although Communist elements had threatened demonstrations, the Queen and Prince Philip met only happy smiles and thunderous applause as they drove slowly through close-packed crowds of Ceylonese to the town hall for the official welcome.

Scattered through the huge crowd along the eight-mile drive, were Buddhist priests in their yellow robes and Ceylonese women in brilliant saris patterned on jungle flowers from this Island garden of the East.

Chicago Narcotics Czar Shot to Death

CHICAGO (UP)—The alleged kingpin of a $10,000,000-a-year narcotics racket was seriously wounded and his brother was shot to death moments before their car smashed into the side of a building today.

The driver of the car, James Pape, 36, was killed by bullets in the back of his head and neck. His brother, Anthony (Andy) Pape, 40, slumped beside him, riddled by eight bullets.

Police theorized the shootings resulted from an attempt to take over the lush heroin racket.

B.C. Flood Threat Grows As Cold Delays Run-Off

Heavy snows blanketing the mountains above the Columbia and Kootenay River basins is posing the gravest flood threat on record in the province, officials of the provincial water rights branch reported today.

Millions of acre-feet of snow on the mountain ridges mean devastating floods if a quick thaw occurs.

Largest run-offs on record are expected on the Columbia and Kootenays, and the high flood potential that now exists could be seriously increased by cold weather during April.

The Fraser River basin is in no danger. Snow levels are near average.

Anxious watchers in the interior are hoping for a slow gradual thaw. There is no sign of a break in the cold. Last night, temperatures in parts of the affected region dropped to 18 below and lower.

ABOVE AVERAGE

Gravest danger exists in the East and West Kootenay area, where the snow pack is 150-163 per cent of the long-term average. On the main Columbia basin, snow pack is 147 per cent of the average.

Nearer the coast, the Skagit River basin records 148 per cent while a similar danger exists along the Similkameen, and upper and central Fraser.

Water rights branch officials said a survey scheduled for May 1st will indicate more clearly the seriousness of the flood potential in the Columbia and Kootenay basins.

Three Separate Inquiries Into Moose Jaw Air Crash

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — The transport department's official on-the-spot inquiry into the mid-air collision here of a Trans-Canada Air Lines passenger plane and an RCAF Harvard aircraft probably will be completed by Thursday.

This has been forecast by C. T. Travers of Ottawa, superintendent of air regulations for the federal department, who arrived Friday to open the inquiry.

Mr. Travers said it is quite likely the finds of his inquiry board will be announced by Transport Minister Chevrier.

The RCAF and TCA are well into their own investigations of the crash, which killed 37 persons in Canada's worst air line disaster.

Ottawa Hears Harvard Pilot Not Skylarking

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA (Special)—Charges that Royal Canadian Air Force training planes have "buzzed" civilian aircraft are expected to be considered by the cabinet next week with the possibility that a special inquiry may be ordered.

The charges were made at Edmonton by Capt. A. R. Eddie of Winnipeg, managing director of the Canadian Airline Pilots Association following the crash of the North Star airliner which resulted in the death of 37 persons.

Meantime, information received here from Moose Jaw indicated that the Harvard trainer which collided with the Trans-Canada Airlines North Star was on a routine navigation flight and was on course. It was emphasized here that preliminary inquiries indicated that the Moose Jaw crash was not a case of the Harvard trainer "skylarking" with the civilian craft.

Fatal Derailment 'Deliberate' CNR Man Says, Three Questioned

QUEBEC (CP)—A provincial police spokesman said today three men have been questioned in connection with Tuesday's train wreck at Montmagny, Que., which killed four men. A Canadian National Railways official has said the wreck was caused deliberately by a person or persons unknown.

Police said one of the men questioned was cleared. Questioning of a second man was continuing here. The spokesman said he understood that railway police were questioning a third man in Montreal.

The police spokesman said: "We have nothing solid to go on. We are trying to find someone who could have done this."

The investigation, he said, is being hindered by persons with too vivid imaginations.

They denied a report that an unidentified body found in the wreckage was that of a murdered man whose killer opened the switch in the hope that crime would not be discovered amid the debris of the crash.

"So many things are being reported that it's all mixed up," a police spokesman said. "We are having trouble sorting out the proof. There are a lot of people with imagination."

Police moved in Friday after S. F. Digle, vice-president of operation for Canadian National Railways, said in Montreal railway investigations showed the CNR was not to blame and that the "switch was opened deliberately by a person or persons unknown."

The three crew members of the Ocean Limited were killed when the Montreal-bound express raced through an open switch and plowed into standing freight cars. A fourth unidentified body was found Thursday in the ruins of a freight shed shattered by the train.

Hard-Fighting French Inflict Heavy Red Loss

Rebel Trenches Counter-Attacked

HANOI, Indo-China (CP) The French high command announced tonight that troops rallying from the heart of Dien Bien Phu inflicted "heavy losses" on the Communist-led Viet Minh in smashing a network of rebel trenches on the eastern side of the dustbowl.

French infantry, spearheaded by tanks and after three hours of artillery bombardment, counter-attacked the Vietminh and at the point of bayonets drove them from a hill position in the east.

The Vietminh then were driven out of a series of winding trenches in bloody hand-to-hand fighting.

The French high command announced that the losses of the attacking French troops were "appreciable."

BLAST AIR STRIP

The French high command announced earlier that Vietminh commandos had blown up the metal surfacing of the northern end of the Dien Bien Phu airstrip.

The French counter-attack smashed the closest Vietminh entrenchments to the heart of the fortress. These were estimated at five-eighths of a mile away.

French fighters and bombers followed up the infantry assaults, heavily plastering the Vietminh troops and forcing them to retreat eastward.

A command spokesman did not define the terms "heavy losses" but it was regarded likely that the Vietminh's casualties had run into hundreds of killed and wounded.

Saanich Search Ends as Body Found in Well

The body of a 61-year-old Saanich man, object of a police search since Friday morning, was found in a well near his home at the remote western end of Ivor Road just before noon today.

Henry Dickinson, 61, 347 Ivor, was discovered by a search party which expanded early today to include police, Vancouver Island Rangers and two tracking dogs. Police were called after Dickinson failed to return home after leaving the house at 10 a.m. Friday.

The searchers had gathered at Marigold Post Office at 9.45 a.m., under direction of Saanich Police Sgt. John Hamilton and Gordon Sword of the Rangers. The men spread out into the bush area which extends from the house where Dickinson lived with his wife, toward Prospect Lake.

The body had not yet been brought out of that area at press time and details were scarce.

Dickinson and his wife had come here to retire three or four years ago. He is reported to have been a policeman on the prairies. He was working at present as a night watchman at the Empress Hotel.

Victorians Promised Sunshine For Palm Sunday Services

The promise of sunny weather and the emergence of spring flowers will bring thousands of Victorians out to church tomorrow as Palm Sunday services mark the beginning of the most solemn period in the Christian calendar—Holy Week.

Special observances and sacred music have been planned at all city churches for the day that commemorates the entry of Christ into Jerusalem, the first step of the tragic story of the cross.

The religious significance of Holy Week will be marked each day, through Maunday Thursday and Good Friday, to the jubilant Christian festival of Easter Sunday.

At Christ Church Cathedral Very Rev. Northcote Burke, dean of Christ Church, Vancouver, will conduct the noonday services Monday through Thursday, from 12.15 to 12.40. On Friday special devotions will be held from noon to 3 p.m.

Masses at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral will be at 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. The late mass, a solemn high mass, will feature singing of the Passion.

Parishioners will receive a piece of palm leaf on entering church, which will be blessed later by the officiating priest.

Emmanuel Baptist will feature Easter music . . . the sacred cantata "Olivet to Calvary" at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be heard at 7.30 p.m.

On Good Friday "Man of Sorrows" will be heard at Oak Bay United, and Fletcher's "Way of the Cross" will be heard at St. Mary's.

Volunteers Called For Rigorous Tests

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today decided to call for volunteer "hot pilots" to test Comet jetliners to try to discover weaknesses, Sir Miles Thomas, British Overseas Corporation chairman, said today.

In the last 10 months three unexplained Comet crashes have killed all aboard the planes—99 persons. The latest disaster was Thursday off the Italian island of Stromboli, in which 21 persons died.

Thomas said the test planes may be equipped with special escape hatches and crew ejector seats, and flying instruments will be adapted so they can be jettisoned in case of unanticipated disaster.

The pilots will climb rapidly to high altitudes to try to duplicate the conditions existing just before the three Comets mysteriously plunged in fatal crashes.

The tests probably will be undertaken by test pilots of the royal aircraft establishment, Thomas said, adding:

"We want the Comets back in the air as soon as possible, but they must be right. The question of sabotage clearly cannot be ruled out entirely, but no engineer would shelter behind that."

A BOAC official had earlier denied reports that the corporation had sent any security men to Rome to investigate possible sabotage.

A de Havilland spokesman said today for the manufacturers that no Comet orders have been cancelled. Orders for the newer and more powerful Comet series include one from the first United States buyer, Pan-American World Airways, which has booked three Comet IIIs with the option of a further seven.

The spokesman added that the company is still working hard on the Comet II and Comet III and it is not correct to say that they are different planes from the Comet I, the type that crashed. They were longer in the fuselage, but in structure and design they were the same.

The de Havilland company said of Thursday's crash: "We are mystified.

"We feel that if it is not a matter of strength and not a matter of ordinary safety provisions we have to dig very deep to find the cause.

"When you have been building aircraft for 30 years and have provided against every possible cause of trouble it is rather difficult to know what to do."

Bodies Give No Evidence of Blast

NAPLES (CP) — A British medical officer said today superficial examination of victims' bodies gave no evidence that the jet airliner G-Alyy exploded in mid-air.

Cmdr. R. Russell, medical officer of the Royal Navy aircraft carrier Eagle, said he had examined bodies of five victims, only ones recovered of the 21 persons killed in the crash.

"Most of the injuries appeared to have resulted from a terrific impact," he said.

"I found no signs of an explosion in mid-air. They died hitting something — either the inside of the aircraft or the water."

Earlier reports had indicated that the Comet had exploded in the air, like another ill-fated Comet which plunged into the Mediterranean off Elba last Jan. 10 with loss of 35 lives.

Admiral Earl Mountbatten, British Mediterranean fleet and Allied Mediterranean commander, called off the British search this afternoon. He said he was

IN SECRET MEETINGS

Canada, Big Four May Talk Arms Cut

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With recent United States hydrogen bomb tests injecting a "new note of urgency," the West is solidly behind a proposal for private talks among the Big Four and Canada on world disarmament. Russia has asked for time to study the plan.

The proposal to take such arms discussions out of the public eye, where they have proved only a deadlock of propaganda exchanges, was made Friday by Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon before the United Nations disarmament commission.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky did not say "nyet" to the proposal. In fact, most delegates expect that the Russians finally will agree to the secret talks. But some observers wonder whether Vishinsky might not be preparing to insist on Red China's participation.

Vishinsky said he would have to reserve until later his comment on the British proposal, which got prompt backing by the U.S., France and Canada. He said he wants to see the plan in writing and go over it carefully.

One member of the commission said he understands Vishinsky sought the delay because he had not received instructions from Moscow in time for Friday's session.

Dixon promised to submit his proposal in writing Monday, and the commission recessed until next Wednesday. Canada's delegate, D. M. Johnson, welcomed the proposal.

Ottawa Hears Harvard Pilot Not Skylarking

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA (Special)—Charges that Royal Canadian Air Force training planes have "buzzed" civilian aircraft are expected to be considered by the cabinet next week with the possibility that a special inquiry may be ordered.

The charges were made at Edmonton by Capt. A. R. Eddie of Winnipeg, managing director of the Canadian Airline Pilots Association following the crash of the North Star airliner which resulted in the death of 37 persons.

Meantime, information received here from Moose Jaw indicated that the Harvard trainer which collided with the Trans-Canada Airlines North Star was on a routine navigation flight and was on course. It was emphasized here that preliminary inquiries indicated that the Moose Jaw crash was not a case of the Harvard trainer "skylarking" with the civilian craft.

Three Separate Inquiries Into Moose Jaw Air Crash

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — The transport department's official on-the-spot inquiry into the mid-air collision here of a Trans-Canada Air Lines passenger plane and an RCAF Harvard aircraft probably will be completed by Thursday.

This has been forecast by C. T. Travers of Ottawa, superintendent of air regulations for the federal department, who arrived Friday to open the inquiry.

Mr. Travers said it is quite likely the finds of his inquiry board will be announced by Transport Minister Chevrier.

The RCAF and TCA are well into their own investigations of the crash, which killed 37 persons in Canada's worst air line disaster.
